As the in... stenographers for the ... Non-Partisan League, ... La Follette regards as ... correct, merely recorded ... said.

In no single detail of importance are the two versions of the speech not in accord. Perhaps the greatest difference noted by a careful comparison of the two official stenographers quoted La Follette as saying that Congress looked "cockeyed at the administration's demands, while the State Council of Defense stenographers quoted him as saying that Congress looked "pop-eyed."

Comparing the two versions carefully, the committee was unable to find substantiation of La Follette's statement in his first letter to the committee to the effect that the State Council of Defense's version of his speech was incorrect in many ways. All of the questionable utterances of the Wisconsin Senator were reported in practically the same words by both stenographers.

Senator La Follette told the committee that he spoke extemporaneously and after a fashion attempted to attribute part of his alleged misstatements of fact to frequent interruptions from the audience which caused him to abandon his manuscript and answer questions that were directed at him.

HIS STATEMENT.

"There were two interruptions from the audience not shown in the transcript of the official report of the Non-Partisan League," Senator La Follette said. "Thinking that these might have significance in your consideration of the subject matter of the speech, I here refer to them. One is the question from the audience—'How about the Lusitania?' Of course all I said upon that subject was said because of the interruption. I had no intention of referring to it.

"The second interruption which I note as not appearing in the text of the transcript furnished me shows the expression—'Shame on Congress' came from the audience, and that I replied as shown in the context of the speech. With these interruptions the transcript is substantially correct so far as I now recall."

Senator La Follette asked the committee to note that neither version of his speech quoted him as saying in various forms that "we had no grievance" in connection with his statements regarding the entrance of the United States in the war.

HIS IRONY.

Both versions show that he said

The Great War.

FLANDERS A SWAMP.

But Roar of Battle Continues.

French Defeat Attempts of the Germans for Positions on the Meuse.

Russians Prepare to Attack in Rumania; New Activity in Macedonia.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COMPARATIVELY little fighting is in progress on any of the battle front, except in the nature of reciprocal bombardments. In Flanders, Thursday, both the British and French troops kept to their trenches in the new positions they hold as a result of the drive of Tuesday, says the Associated Press review of the war for the past twenty-four hours.

The big guns on both sides, however, were shelling opposing positions vigorously.

Additional rain over this region has accentuated the swampy condition of the ground, and it probably will be several days before the British and French start another raid against the Teutons. Wednesday night the French repulsed a heavy counter-attack east of Draelbank.

IN VERDUN SECTOR.

Along the southern front in France the Germans again have met defeat in attempts to capture French positions on the east bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector. The attacks, however, were not made in strong force, being more in the nature of trench-raiding operations.

The prospects of a return to heavy fighting in Rumania, with the Russians the aggressors, seem good. On the Rumanian plain and near Braila the Russians have heavily bombarded the Teutonic allied position, while the Germans in reprisal shelled the important Danubian town of Galatz.

On the northern sector of the eastern front, near Riga, the Germans, after a heavy bombardment, pushed back the Russians in the vicinity of the Pskov high road.

Daily the artillery duels in Macedonia, with the Entente forces exerting the greater power, are increasing, especially in the direction of Doiran and Monastir, and it is probable that at no late date the predicted Allied offensive in this region will begin.

FROM THE FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 11.—The situation along the new battle front underwent no change during the night. There was a heavy artillery fire at various points, but no infantry action of importance is reported. It rained hard for a time again last night. At the time this dispatch was filed the sky was clear, but the air was cold, adding to the discomfort of the men lying out in the mud and water along the line. The recent operations in Flanders have brought many congratulatory messages to the British troops. Field Marshal Haig has issued an order of the day containing a number of dispatches received on October 5, and the replies sent to them. Gen. J. J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force in France, telegraphed:

"Permit me to extend sincere congratulations to you and your magnificent army upon the recent important gains in front of Ypres. They give a striking answer to the weak-kneed peace propaganda."

Field Marshal Haig sent this answer:

"I wish to thank you very heartily in behalf of the British army under my command for your most kind telegram. We look forward to the day when the American armies join us on the western front and we are quite confident that the Allies, so reinforced, will fight the war to an early and decisive issue."

GERMAN GAINS.

BERLIN (via London) Oct. 11.—Important ground in Chaume wood, north of Verdun, was captured by German troops from the French yesterday and held against strong counter-attacks, army headquarters announced today. Other inroads were made upon the French lines in the Verdun region. Intense artillery fire has been in progress on the Flanders front, where a French attack near Draelbank was unsuccessfully launched. There was no attack by the British in an air battle in which some eighty machines took part. Three Entente airplanes were shot down, according to the official statement.

RUSSIANS VS. KURDS.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 11.—In Kurdistan, southeast of Lake Van, Russian troops have been engaged in successful operations against the Kurds, capturing numbers of them, occupying two villages and driving the remainder of the enemy to the banks of the Great Zab River.

PARIS STATEMENT.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The official communication issued by the War Office tonight says:

"During the day the two artilleries were active at various points along the front, particularly in the region of L'Epine de Chevregny, south of the Butte du Mesnil, where our fire arrested enemy groups who attempted to reach our small posts, and on the right bank of the Meuse. There were no infantry actions.

"Eastern theater, October 10: The artillery action was resumed quite actively, especially in the region of Doiran and north of Monastir. British troops carried out a raid against the enemy positions near Doiran."

LONDON STATEMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—An official statement on British aerial operations issued today says:

"On Tuesday and Wednesday air patrols attacked enemy trenches by machine-gun fire. One pilot, heavily shelled by anti-aircraft guns, descended and attacked the gun crews, scattering them and silencing the guns.

"Early on Wednesday naval raids were made on the Thourout and Lichtervelde railway junctions and trains. Large quantities of explosives were dropped."

KILLED HIS CHILD.

Massachusetts Man is Convicted of Manslaughter for Choking Daughter to Death.

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Oct. 11.—Joseph M. Wakelin of Melrose was found guilty tonight of manslaughter for the death of his daughter Loretta, aged 7.

His wife Sarah, who had been on trial with him on the same charge, was acquitted. The jury deliberated nearly eight hours. The maximum penalty for manslaughter in this State is twenty-years' imprisonment.

Wakelin and his wife were originally indicted for murder, but when they were placed on trial the charge was changed to manslaughter. The State contended that when Loretta was sent home from school on the morning of June 1, 1916, for a book she had forgotten, she objected to returning to school and that in a fit of anger Wakelin seized her more forcibly than he intended and choked her to death. Then, in order to divert suspicion, according to the State's allegation, he mutilated the child's body and concealed it in the woods near his home in Melrose so as to make it appear that his daughter had been a victim of a degenerate.

Accusations.

MAYOR SMITH HELD ON MANY CHARGES.

EXECUTIVE OF PHILADELPHIA UNDER $10,000 BAIL.

Accused of Misbehavior in Office, Contempt of Court, Conspiracy to Commit Murder and Several Other Crimes in a Ward Election Row.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Mayor Thomas B. Smith was held today in $10,000 bail in the municipal court to await the action of the grand jury on six charges growing out of the murder by imported gunmen of a policeman in the Fifth Ward here on primary election day. The gunmen are alleged to have been brought here to intimidate voters and workers opposed to the faction favored by Mayor Smith and his political assistants.

The charges against the Mayor include misbehavior in office, contempt of court in refusing to produce certain documentary evidence, violation of the Shern election law forbidding participation in politics by city employees, conspiracy to commit assault and battery, conspiracy to commit aggravated assault and battery and conspiracy to commit murder.

Three other principal defendants, Isaac Deutsch, common Councilman and defeated candidate for the nomination to select Council; William E. Fibley, mercantile appraiser and executive director of the Republican City Committee, and David Bennett, a police lieutenant in the Fifth Ward, were also held under $10,000 bail each, on the four last-named charges, and five policemen under Bennett, co-defendents, were each held in $5000 bail.

In holding the Mayor, Judge Brown concurred with James Gay Gordon, chief counsel for the prosecution, that the Mayor was the "prime male factor in the political conspiracy." Counsel for the defense had no reply to make to the argument of Mr. Gordon, who flayed the Mayor in summing up the evidence brought during the eight days the hearing has occupied.

AMERICA, WAKE UP!

A Warning Note by McAdoo.

Bond Issue a Vital Factor in the War, Secretary of Treasury Says.

Farmers Advised to Invest All Their Surplus to Help Win the Contest.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, sounded a new note in his campaign for the Liberty Loan here tonight when he warned the nation that should the present or any subsequent issue of bonds fail during the war with Germany, the credit of this government would be impaired with disastrous results to the country.

"If the credit of the nation is undermined," the Secretary declared, "what is property worth to the rich man, what is life worth to the free man?"

Insisting that government bonds were the safest investment in the world for the citizens of the United States, he said that their investment promoted national safety and made property secure. He told the immense crowd gathered to hear him that if the present Liberty Bond issue was not greatly oversubscribed, the fact would be spread broadcast through Germany, where it would be accepted as a plain indication that the American people were not back of their government in waging war on autocracy.

MIGHT PROLONG WAR.

"Such an outcome," the speaker commented, "would unquestionably have the effect of greatly prolonging the war."

The Secretary delivered his forty-seventh speech on his present Liberty Loan tour when he arrived here tonight from Portland, Or. He will leave tomorrow for San Diego for a two days' rest, and then, after speaking at Los Angeles, he will begin his homeward journey, stopping at Salt Lake City, Denver and other points.

The Secretary expressed the fullest confidence in his belief that the farmers of the Middle West and Northwest, to whom he had been speaking the past ten days, will subscribe heavily to the loan.

Speaking of the aggressions of Germany against the United States, he said:

"We chose to fight—and why? Because, first, national honor and self-respect imperatively demanded it and, secondly, because we can never concede the right of any nation, however powerful, to order American vessels and American citizens to keep off the high seas and prevent America from selling her surplus products of the farm, the factory and the mine to other nations of the world."

WEST IS CONCERNED.

Secretary McAdoo declared that the Western and Pacific Coast States are as much concerned in the war as the eastern, and cited the Zimmermann note to Mexico as showing that Germany had covetous eyes on the territory of the West and Southwest. If America is kept by German submarines from shipping her commerce to Europe, the farming and mining sections of the West would be brought face to face with disaster because there would be no outlet for the surplus products of the nation, and prices would fall, he declared.

Discussing the uses to which the money loaned the government by the people would be put, Secretary McAdoo said the problem was two-fold —to supply essential credits to Allied governments, because it is vital to the cause that their strength and credit be sustained, and, secondly, to meet our own requirements.

NEEDS OF THE ARMY.

"I should like you to realize," he declared, "that every dollar that is paid to a soldier, every pair of shoes that is put on his feet, every piece of clothing that he wears, every gun that he carries, every cartridge that he fires, every sixteen-inch shell that is fired from the monster guns of our battleships and every shovelful of coal that is consumed in them depends upon the money in the United States Treasury. And so, unless you keep the gold pile in the Treasury sufficient for the demand, unless you keep it so large and ample that whatever strain your government puts upon it for the purpose of this war shall find a ready response, then the light of liberty goes out into the world—and where is America?"

AT DINNER ADDRESS.

In a brief address at a dinner given by the local Liberty Loan workers preceding the big meeting at the Civic Auditorium Secretary McAdoo said:

"I believe this war is coming to a conclusion in a shorter time than is generally expected. I do not base this on any inside information, but on my belief in the results that American efficiency which I see on all sides will achieve."

In regard to America's naval programme he said:

"It has already been found that our patrol in European waters is quite effective."

The Secretary spoke of the new German war loan, which he said was more or less of a paper affair, while the people of the United States were producing not flat, but real coin.

DISCUSS CORN PRICES.

Board of Trade Meeting at Chicago Decides Not to Change Present Maximum Figure.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—An outside Board of Trade meeting with the Chicago Board of Trade today decided not to remove the maximum limits on the prices of corn.

The following agreements were concurred in unanimously:

"First, there is to be no change whatever at this time in the maximum prices of corn now in effect in the different markets. Second, all markets agree, so far as contracts maturing in different months in 1917 are concerned, that at no time shall the present maximum be removed on such contracts. Third, on contracts which mature in the varying months of the year 1918 some of the exchanges reserve the right at a future date to modify or rescind existing maximums or regulations now in effect on 1918 contracts.

LLOYD GEORGE UNABLE TO SEE END OF THE WAR.

Insists Von Kuehlmann's Statement that Germany will Never Give up Alsace-Lorraine is Calculated to Prolong the Struggle in Europe.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Premier Lloyd George, addressing a delegation of insurance committees who called today to urge a readjustment of health insurance and the establishment of a ministry of health, declared that all the nation's thoughts and energies were taken up by the terrible demands made in defense of liberty and freedom. He wished he could see the end, but the task which the nation had taken in hand must be accomplished.

He could not think of any statement more calculated to prolong the war than the assertion of the German Foreign Secretary, Von Kuehlmann, that Germany would never contemplate the making of concessions to France respecting Alsace-Lorraine.

However long the war lasted, said the Postmaster-General, England intended to stand by her gallant ally, France, until she redeemed her oppressed children from the degradation of a foreign yoke.

For the moment every claim upon the exchequer must be considered in the light of the terrible possibilities of the war and when the war was over, in a freer, happier atmosphere the country could begin to rebuild, reconstruct and regenerate.

FANCY PRICE PAID FOR HIDES OF CATS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—Sales today at the international fur auction totalled $538,000. It is expected that when the auction closes tomorrow the total for the sale will be $3,000,000. Coon skins advanced 20 per cent. at this sale, 40,000 of the pelts bringing $100,000. Bidding was lively for all kinds of furs, the only variety showing a decline in price being beaver pelts, which were 20 per cent. lower.

Cat pelts, which usually sell for about 5 cents each, today averaged 30 cents each. Sixteen thousand of these skins were sold.

SHIP AFIRE AT SEA, GERMANS SUSPECTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

A PACIFIC PORT, Oct. 11. — Chemicals placed in the lumber cargo and contrived to ignite when the vessel passed through a warm temperature caused a fire aboard the steamer Niels Nielsen, as she was steaming from Hongkong to Bombay on her last voyage from this port, according to the captain and crew of the vessel, who are here now. The vessel was damaged to the extent of $20,000 and the cargo even more.

The captain said British officials in Bombay surveyed the ship on her arrival and declared the chemicals were placed by Teuton agents while she was loading in Bellingham last May. The crew fought the flames thirty hours before getting them under control.

The Writing on the Wall.

GERMAN NAVAL MUTINY BEGINNING OF THE END.

Conspiracy to Rid the Country of the Dynasty Fostered by the People, British Statesmen Hear.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The attempted revolution in the German navy, announced by Vice-Admiral Von Capelle at yesterday's session of the Reichstag, was a far more serious movement than the Minister of Marine admitted, despite his assertion that rumors of the affair had been greatly exaggerated. Secret information reaching this country gives extraordinary details of the movements and proves indisputably that it was not a mere flare-up, but a carefully considered move on the part of a large section of the navy by certain parties in Germany to bring about peace.

Today the Kaiser's leaders find themselves assailed on all sides in a situation that is highly critical.

SERIES OF OUTBREAKS.

It was learned today that the revolt was only one of a series of outbreaks which have been fomenting since the Russian revolution and other political events. Speeches outside of Germany opened the people's eyes somewhat to the possibility of peace. Indications of what was going on reached England some time ago, when officials here noted in the German casualty lists the announcement of the death of an officer of the navy "due to accident." Prisoners questioned reported that the officer had been thrown overboard, and others later confirmed this report.

From other confirmed statements from similar sources it is evident that other officers occasionally suffered the same fate. Naturally, under the strict German censorship, it is impossible to know just how far the mutineers succeeded in carrying out their plans, but reports leaking through from all corners of Europe indicate the seriousness of the movement.

It was quite natural that Capelle should saddle most of the responsibility for this uprising on the shoulders of the Independent Socialists. Haase, leader of the Socialist minority, who, together with Dittmann and Vogtherr, was accused by the Minister of Marine of being involved in the mutiny plot, has consistently rejected the votes of credit before the Reichstag in accordance with his declaration of August 4, 1914. He, with Liebnecht, Ruehle and Tehring, has held that even a defensive war by Germany was wrong and naturally has done everything possible to bring peace.

Last February the Socialist majority, of which Scheidemann is the leader, excommunicated the minority and in April the latter constituted themselves an independent party. Though all the German Socialists in the Reichstag, numbering 110 members, advocate drastic internal reforms, they differ on questions of peace terms. The one big lesson to be drawn from the recent German uprising is that it shows the wisdom of President Wilson's policy in differentiating between the German people and the rulers. The speech in which the President drew the line carefully between the two groups put into the minds of the German people the germ which later fermented into a serious mutiny. The view is taken in some quarters here that the disclosures about the revolt were made merely to strengthen the hand of the government and to discredit the societies involved in the plots. But it is impossible to explain away the revolution itself, which is the first big indication the world has had of a true undercurrent of feeling toward peace moving beneath the German camouflaged surface of calm.

Theory.

GERMAN MUTINY STAGED, SOME EXPERTS BELIEVE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 11.—Some naval experts here are convinced that the reported mutiny of German sailors was deliberately staged for the purpose of giving Chancellor Michaelis a club with which to hammer the extreme Socialists in the Reichstag.

"It is very hard for me to believe that any considerable number of German sailors deliberately mutinied if a real effort was made to hold them in check," said an official. "In fact, I see in the reports of the incident clear indications of the underground work of Berlin officials. I do not believe that the personnel of the German navy has been so shaken in its morale as to be on the verge of falling to pieces. On the other hand the extreme Socialists and some not so extreme have been causing a lot of unrest in Germany and Chancellor Michaelis needed an effective club with which to combat the arguments of their representatives in the Reichstag."

Other naval experts take the opposite view, declaring their conviction that the situation in the German navy is even worse than outlined in statements credited to Admiral Von Capelle and that the incident has not yet been closed. In this connection one naval expert said:

"Von Capelle's statement is most significant and shows that the situation is really critical. The navy is the last thing in a country to become disaffected, if it has a good record, as a navy is never an instrument of oppression, such as armies have been, the latter being quartered among the people. Besides, the men are the best fed in any country."

That mortality among members of the crews of German submarines is very high is accepted as a certainty by naval authorities. Definite information is lacking as to whether it is necessary actually to draft crews for U-boats, but there is no doubt here that for the most part German sailors receive details to submarine duty with anything but enthusiasm, to say the least.

Result.

SOCIALISTS OPEN WAR ON MICHAELIS REGIME.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 11.—The immediate results of the disclosures of Chancellor Michaelis and Vice-Admiral Von Capelle have been that the government Socialists have been driven into complete opposition and into alignment with the Radical Socialists, that the followers of Philipp Scheidemann have delivered a formal declaration of war against the government until Chancellor Michaelis has been removed from office, and that the Radicals, the members of the Center and even the National Liberals have criticised and condemned the Michaelis-Capelle move as one which ought not to have been made unless the government had full, adequate proof of the complicity of the three Radical Socialists in an actual conspiracy to mutiny—proof which they evidently believe the government will be unable to produce.

Stripped of its embellishments, the government statement, reduced itself to the charge that agitation to enroll members for the Radical Socialist party had been carried on in the navy, that leaflets had been distributed, and that two of the executed sailors had visited Deputies Haase, Vogtherr and Dittmann.

The three Socialists made a great play of the fact that the government had made no attempt to bring them to trial, and they argued that the Crown Prosecutor would not have missed such an opportunity to be had any evidence upon which to convict them. This argument evidently appeals to all but the Conservatives, and it has dictated the attitude of a large share of the press, which, despite dislike for the Radical Socialists, takes this standpoint that Chancellor Michaelis misused the affair for political capital.

PASSENGERS KILLED IN ATTACK ON TRAIN.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 11.—Eight passengers were killed and fifty wounded by a band of seventy criminals who derailed a mail train on the Rostov-Tiflis line at Vladikarkaz, according to the Moscow newspaper Ranneye Outro.

The robbers tore up the rails and after the train had been wrecked, attacked the passengers with rifles.

BERLIN AIDED IRISH LEAGUE.

Financed Move to Combat the British Peace Centenary.

William Bayard Hale Pushed Propaganda on Coast.

Organized Campaign Against Sale of Munitions.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Germany financed Irish-American propaganda organizations in the United States as early as 1909 to combat the newly-developed movement for celebration of 100 years of peace between America and Great Britain. President Wilson has learned from leaders in the centenary celebration.

John A. Stewart of New York, chairman of the American branch of the Centenary Committee, who recently called on the White House with H. S. Perris of London, a leader in the British phase of the movement, brought evidence that within five weeks after announcement of the centenary plans, early in 1909, German and Irish-American interests in the United States formed a number of associations and leagues to foster interest in German affairs.

TRAFFIC WITH O'LEARY.

Most of these organizations, Mr. Stewart informed the President, shortly became merged with the American Irish Society, whose president, Jeremiah O'Leary, was mentioned in the secret message to Count von Bernstorff, from the German government, disclosed yesterday by Secretary Lansing. One of the activities of the organizations was to erect elaborate monuments over the graves of prominent German-Americans and to give publicity to historic roles played by Germans in the United States. Development of the British-American peace centenary movement was combatted by the German propagandists in a multitude of ways, extending even to lobbying against bills in State legislatures to promote success of the centenary celebration planned for 1914 and disarranged by the war.

Mr. Stewart offered to place at the disposal of the President or State Department records of the British-American Peace Centenary Committee, indicating that the German-Irish propaganda to exploit public opinion, came into existence at least eight years ago.

HALE'S PROPAGANDA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—A project for propaganda on the Pacific Coast, especially at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, against the sale of munitions to the Allies was advanced about two years ago by Dr. William Bayard Hale in a letter, the last of which was made public here today. Edgar Allen Forbes, secretary of the State Marketing Bureau, who gave out the letter, said he had reported the matter to President Wilson at the time. Hale's letter to Forbes follows:

"No. 882 Riverside drive, New York, June 21, 1916.

"My Dear Forbes: Some friends of mine are very much interested in an endeavor to relieve the people of the United States from complicity in the European war by forbidding the export from this country to Europe of arms and ammunition. They are engaged in something of a campaign in the Eastern States with this object in view. I do not know at all how you stand on the question, but I have been asked to suggest the name of someone who could conduct a successful publicity campaign on the Pacific Coast, and my mind has instantly turned to you.

"If you are at all sympathetic with the purpose, perhaps you will be good enough to send me a telegram, and I will obtain and have communicated to you further particulars regarding the idea.

"I fancy that it would involve some poster advertising in San Francisco, and possibly the establishment of a modest booth in the exposition grounds for the solicitation of signatures to a petition to Congress praying for an embargo on war munitions.

"Further than this I am not informed. What do you say?

"Faithfully yours,

"WILLIAM BAYARD HALE."

Forbes and Dr. Hale were associated in the editorial work on a New York magazine.

NEGRO DRAFT TROOPS.

War Department will Call Colored Men to Service Before the End of This Month.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Negro men of the National Army will be called out some time this month, it was stated at the War Department today, to be assigned to the cantonments throughout the country in accordance with the organization plan announced Monday. The exact date of the call has not been fixed, but it will be soon after the graduation of the negro officers from the training camp at Des Moines.

The presence of the new officers when the troops arrive is regarded as vitally necessary, as all the preliminary work of equipment and training rests squarely on the junior and noncommissioned officers. The latter are to be assigned from the ranks of the four regiments of negro troops in the regular army.

ironically that the United States had grievances because the Germans were sinking munitions ships and taking the profits of the war profiteers.

"Permit me to say," said Senator La Follette, in closing his letter, "that if it is the purpose of the committee to make an investigation as to any statement of fact in the speech then I request that the committee advise me what statement of fact is so called into question and in what respect its correctness is questioned.

"Furthermore, if any issues of fact are to be raised by testimony concerning any statements in the speech, then I ask to be accorded the right to question anyone so testifying, and that I be permitted to call witnesses to meet the testimony which may be so offered.

"If the speech is to be otherwise questioned or my right to make it considered by the committee, then I respectfully request that I be so advised by the committee and that I be given an opportunity to be heard thereon in person and by counsel."

TO CONSIDER DEMAND.

When the committee meets tomorrow to resume consideration of the St. Paul speech it is probable that La Follette's demand to question the testimony of persons contradicting statements of fact in his speech will be considered. Members indicated they did not think it would be proper to permit La Follette to cross-examine either the President or Mr. Bryan.

The committee now has before it the State Department's official account of the incidents prior to and subsequently to the sinking of the Lusitania and it also has the President's unofficial version of his conversations with Secretary Bryan. No word has yet been received from Mr. Bryan in response to the committee's request for his version of the incident.

BELIEVES WAR WILL LAST THREE YEARS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 11.—Assertion that it is the general opinion in Japan that the European war will last three more years, was made today by Kichiaburo Sasaki of Tokio, who is here as the head of a party of Japanese educators on a mission to this country. He said Japan was doing its part in the war and that every ship built in Japan for warfare was patrolling the Mediterranean or the Pacific. Practically all of Japan's merchant marine, he said, was being used in trading with the United States.

ONE-THIRD CUT FOR STEEL MEN.

Maximum Price is Fixed by War Industries Board.

Affects Government Contracts and Private Firms.

Will Supervise Output of Mills in Pittsburgh.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. — An agreement between the War Industries Board and steel manufacturers, fixing maximum prices for steel products about one-third under existing market prices, was approved today by President Wilson.

Prices agreed upon, with Pittsburgh, Pa., and Youngstown, O., as base, are:

Blooms and billets (4x4 or larger,) $47.50 gross ton; billets (under 4x4,) $51; slabs, $49; sheet bars, $53; wire rods, $57.

Prices with Pittsburgh as base are: Steel bars (3 to 6,) $3.25 per 100 pounds; steel bars (6 to 8,) $2.50; steel bars (8 to 10,) $2.75; steel bars (over 10,) $4; skelp (grooved,) $2.90; skelp (universal,) $3.15; skelp (sheared,) $3.25.

AS TO CONTRACTS.

The prices will apply to private as well as to government contracts. The price of billets, fixed at $47.50, represents a reduction of the current market price of about $32.50 a ton; billets at $51, a reduction of $74; sheet bars at $51, a reduction of from $39 to $44 a ton, and wire rods, fixed at $57, a reduction of $33 a ton.

Prices later will be fixed on most of the other iron and steel products, including finished wire, nails, tin plate and sheet iron.

Prices for pig iron and steel shapes, frames, etc., were fixed by agreement some time ago and the policy is now extended after frequent conferences between the War Industries Board and the Federal Trade Commission, which supplied cost-of-production figures, and between the board and the manufacturers. The prices become effective immediately, subject to revision January 1 next.

BOARD'S STATEMENT.

The board, announcing the agreement tonight, made this statement:

"The prices enumerated have been fixed by the President on the assurance of those representing the steel industry that these prices equitably adjust the relations of the steel interests to each other and will assist them in fulfilling their obligations to give the country 100 per cent. of production at not to exceed the prices heretofore announced.

"Measures will be taken by the War Industries Board for placing orders and supervising the output of the steel mills in such manner as to facilitate and expedite the requirements for war purposes of the government and those nations associated with us, and to supply the needs of the public according to their public importance and in the best interest of all, as far as practicable."

LOOKS FOR DOWNFALL OF NEW CHANCELLOR.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 11.—Germany's paper crisis over the Pan-German propaganda, which loomed so big in anticipation, but was so small in results, has passed. In its place has risen a new and this time, a really serious crisis, caused by the attempt of Chancellor Michaelis, Vice-Chancellor Helfferich and Minister of the Navy Von Capelle to use the alleged plot in the German navy as a political weapon against the party of the extreme Left in the Reichstag.

It is not improbable, German political observers point out, that Chancellor Michaelis in an hour of apparent success sowed the seeds of his own downfall. Results are not to be expected immediately, as the Reichstag adjourns this week, but the new conditions of German political life, it is contended, will undoubtedly from now on work against Von Bethmann Hollweg's successor.

GERMAN REVOLT SPIRIT GROWING, SAYS ASQUITH.

Is the Desire for Peace by People Sincere, Asks the Former Premier.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Addressing a war aims meeting at Liverpool tonight, H. H. Asquith, former Premier, referred to recent declarations by German statesmen and writers and said that his previously expressed skepticism regarding the Reichstag's peace resolution was justified by the event, for the German parties had been squabbling ever since with infinite acrimony concerning its orthodox interpretation, and confusion had become worse confounded with the publication of the Chancellor's reply to the papal note.

Doubtless, said Mr. Asquith, in both Germany and Austria there was a widespread and genuine desire for peace and in the Reichstag itself, slender as were its powers and divided its councils, there were indications of a growing spirit of revolt against the government methods.

THE DOMINANT FACT.

"But," continued Mr. Asquith, "the dominant fact with which we have to deal is neither German public opinion nor the German Parliament, but the German government. Does that government mean business? Is its desire for peace sincere? Depend upon it, the world will never find the way to peace through a morass of equivocations and ambiguities. Plain questions and concrete cases are studiously avoided. We are left in the dimness of a rhetorical twilight and we are asked to lay down our arms without other safeguard than we shall be offering a unique exhibition of the three virtues, faith, hope and charity."

Admitting that nobody pretends that it will be right for either side to formulate an ultimatum detailed and exhaustive, which must be accepted, chapter and verse, as an indispensable condition of peace and that many things must be left for accommodation and adjustment by negotiation, Mr. Asquith declared that at the same time the Allies must be resolute and definite in their assertion of the means whereby peace must be attained.

VON KUEHLMANN'S ADDRESS.

He referred to the speech of the German Foreign Secretary, Dr. Von Kuehlmann, respecting Alsace-Lorraine and said:

"German diplomacy is not celebrated for deftness, but even in its annals it would be difficult to find a more clumsy or more transparent maneuver than this maladroit attempt to sow discord between ourselves and our French Allies. Von Kuehlmann relegates the Belgian question to a secondary position."

Concluding with an allusion to the general situation Mr. Asquith said:

"If it is to be a contest of endurance we have no reason to lose heart or hope. During the last fortnight our unconquerable troops have been doing great things both in Flanders and Mesopotamia. There is still need of economy and good organization in the consumption of necessary commodities but not the slightest danger of our being starved into submission.

"Take the Allies as a whole, including America, whose contribution to the common stock becomes every month a factor in the growing quietude survey and relative powers of endurance of the two sides; measure them by any standard, naval, military or economic and after you have made allowance for every dubious or hazardous contingency, even for the temporary paralysis of Russia as an aggressive force, can there be doubt that the material, no less than the moral, preponderance rests manifestly and increasingly with our cause?"

Weakening.

SAYS KUEHLMANN FAVORS RELINQUISHING BELGIUM.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—During the debate yesterday in the Reichstag Deputy Conrad Haussmann said that the declaration of Dr. Von Kuehlmann, the Foreign Secretary, that apart from Alsace-Lorraine there is no absolute bar to peace—was tantamount to a definite understanding that Belgium should be given up.

"That should be heralded forth to all the nations," the deputy added.

Gustav Stresemann, a national Liberal, said he would not oppose a reduction of armaments, but he thought that disarmament hardly was practical politics.

Count von Westarp, a Conservative, thought that Germany's answer to the Pope ought to have made clear that Germany would not undertake to disarm and hoped that Dr. Von Kuehlmann had not tied himself to yielding up Belgium.

George Ledebour, Social Democrat leader, dwelt on the damage done to the German cause by the revelations concerning Von Luxburg, the German Minister to Argentina. He considered that the populations of the occupied territory should be permitted to decide their own fate.

KAISER'S TARS PLOTTED OUTBREAK MONTHS AGO.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—According to some reports here the discontent in the German navy began eight months ago and the men of the fleet had reached such a nervous state owing to the prolonged high tension that only a spark was needed to cause an explosion. On board the warships involved, it is said, large numbers of pamphlets were found dealing with the cause of the war and asking why Germany became the most hated nation in the world. Others dilated on the vile influence of junkerdom and the big manufacturing interests and purported to give the truth about "the men behind the war."

Fairly reliable accounts put the number of men condemned to penal servitude at thirty, whose sentences range from five to fifteen years, while eighty to one hundred were given lighter sentences.

Lieut. Edwards Welles Saw Twenty-four Killed and More than Forty Injured—Wounded Teutons Under Treatment Among the Victims.

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 11.—A letter describing a recent attack by German aviators on French hospitals in which twenty-four men were killed outright, and forty more wounded and many of them died, by exploding bombs, was made public here today by J. L. Marten. The letter was received from Lieut. Edwards Welles of Los Angeles, nephew of Marten. The lieutenant is attached to an American hospital unit somewhere in France.

"Six bombs were dropped and we could hear them sing as they came down, followed by a terrific roar when they exploded," Lieut. Welles wrote. "The day staff was in bed at the time and the bombs made a ghastly mess of them."

Fifty wounded Germans in a hospital tent "got the full benefit of their brothers' kultur," the letter said. "I wish they could be sent home just as they were left by the raider as exhibit 'A' on bombing hospitals," Lieut. Welles wrote. He said he escaped by crawling under a theater, being used as a hospital.

NEW GERMAN DEFENSE SYSTEM PROVES TRAP.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FLANDERS, Oct. 10.—The new system of front-line defenses inaugurated by the Germans who, instead of utilizing line trenches, organized nests of shell holes, proved a regular trap in the battle just ended. The German troops who occupied the craters, without other shelter, when they found during the fighting that their officers were not with them, deserted as soon as the French approached. The German officers meanwhile were sheltered in concrete "pill boxes" farther to the rear.

The correspondent spoke today with several prisoners, officers and men, all of whom seemed to be in a terrible condition of fatigue. The officers declared that their companies were reduced to a strength of only forty men, some of the boys of 18. The men were well provided with food in the front lines, but that is not true of the country the rear.

The French troops below the condition of the men, a further advance in their line toward the Houthoulst forest and additional batches of prisoners.

DRILLING TROOPS TO CONSERVE FOOD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Men and officers of the United States Army are being rigidly drilled against waste of food in their training courses. Divisional commanders have been instructed to exercise the greatest care in seeing that the work of the company kitchens is carried out so as to give every man ample food without waste.

AIRPLANE PATENTS PROBLEM IS SOLVED.

ACTION OF FEDERAL BOARD IS DECLARED LEGAL.

Atty.-Gen. Gregory Holds that Pooling of Rights Held by Various Flyer Manufacturers Under Direction of Aircraft Board not Violation of Sherman Law.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Legal approval has been given the agreement between the Aircraft Production Board and the Airplane Manufacturers' Association, clearing away a possible serious obstacle to the government's $640,000,000 aircraft programme. Atty.-Gen. Gregory has held, it was learned today, that the patent-pooling plan to prevent patent litigation does not violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

The effect of the opinion is to ratify all the work done by the Aircraft Production Board and the Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and insure the employment of the entire airplane-producing capacity of the country on the big job.

The pooling agreement in general terms provides for the pooling in the Airplane Manufacturers' Association of the basic airplane patents known as the Wright and Curtiss patents, and also of all other airplane patents now held or hereafter developed by members of the association.

Provision is made for royalty payments at $200 a machine, a reduction to about one-fifth of the sum asked by patent holders before the plan was worked out.

ASK FOR RELEASE OF SWEDISH MAIL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The State Department, at the request of the food administration, has asked the British government to release the bags of Swedish mail seized at Halifax from the steamer that brought Dr. Lundbohm, a member of the Swedish economic mission, to this country. It developed today that the pouches are at the British Embassy here with their seals intact.

Sweden is understood to insist that the pouches must be delivered to the Swedish Legation without being examined as they were in transit as "courier" or official mail, while the British authorities desire to examine the mail at the Embassy here.

TROUBLE IN SWEDEN.

Efforts to Organize Coalition Cabinet Fail; Three Political Parties Can't Reach Agreement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Efforts to form a coalition Cabinet in Sweden have failed, according to official dispatches received here today, and a Liberal ministry is predicted, leaders of the Conservative, Liberal and Socialist parties having been unable to agree. The King is consulting presiding officers of the two houses of Parliament.

Liberals and Socialists have for some time been in the majority, but have declined hitherto to assume the government. Recent elections increased their strength and were taken to indicate that a change in the foreign policy was demanded by the people. A complete change in the personnel of the ministry is looked for.

AMERICANS PLEASED WITH FRENCH GUNS.

ARTILLERYMEN TRAIN WITH MONSTER WEAPONS.

Veteran Gunners from United States Having Little Trouble in Familiarizing Themselves with Big "400's," Which Hurl Explosive Weighing Ton.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Oct. 10.—Not far behind the American field artillery, which has been in training in a rugged section of France for the past two months, have come the men of the "heavies." They are veteran gunners and many are familiar with the big guns at home and they greeted almost as comrades the monster French weapons, which they are now grooming for eventual use against the Germans.

Some of the guns with which the American artillery are training are wonderful and ponderous examples of the French gun makers' skill and daring. They range from the modest, but marvelously effective "155" up to the staggering "400" that hurls a high explosive missile weighing just short of a ton. The 400's are more potent than the Big Berthas ever were in their days of great destructiveness.

In caliber the guns range from the short, squat mortars, which sit upon their haunches like giant frogs, up through the various members of the howitzer family to the truly sinister naval rifles with their long tapering barrels.

The Americans are delighted with their French weapons and are busy studying every detail and adapting themselves to the use of French material. Most of the heavy gunners are men of long experience and do not need much actual firing practice before taking their place in line against the enemy.

The wireless branch of the heavy artillery service is one of great importance. At schools already established radio pupils are being specially trained in communication with airplanes and observation balloons so they can act as "spotters" for the guns.

Scores of reserve officers are completing their technical education in the artillery schools here. These officers, individually selected for the artillery service because of their education in higher mathematics and engineering, are proving a great joy to their commanders and instructors. It is predicted that all will make splendid officers in active service.

The American gunners have been much interested in the big 240's, which are hauled by caterpillar tractors, but the real pets of the gunners from overseas are those aristocrats among the heavies which command special cars. Some of these rulers of the cannon world are so important and so valuable that an entire artillery train is devoted to them. These trains are strange-looking affairs in their fantastic war paint, resembling at a distance a mammoth rattlesnake. Even the engines are included in the camouflage and may resemble anything from a brick house to a giant hedgehog.

The French sense of humor cannot be suppressed by three years or more of war. French officers have named one of the largest guns turned over to the Americans "Moustique," which means mosquito.

"It is a compliment to any of your artillerymen who may have come from New Jersey," said the French commandant, who said he had spent ten years on the eastern coast of the United States.

The French guns, although large and apparently unwieldly, are balanced easily, one man being able to elevate and deflect a weapon weighing fifty tons or more.

MILITANT PICKETS WARNED TO BEHAVE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—With a warning to the militant pickets of the Woman's party now in the Occoquan workhouse, that unless they "obey the rules of the institution and discontinue their acts of insubordination and rioting" they will be transferred to the jail and kept in solitary confinement, the local government today restored to duty the superintendent of the workhouse, who had temporarily been relieved while charges made by the women were being investigated.

GENERAL WEARS FOUR STARS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, Army Chief of Staff, has received his commission as general and today appeared at the War Department with four stars on each shoulder, the insignia of his new rank. Gen. Pershing's commission to similar rank has been forwarded to him in France.

Exempt.

MEXICANS ARE EXEMPT FROM THE DRAFT LAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Provost-Marshal-General Crowder reiterated again today in a statement that Mexican citizens are not liable to draft in the United States National Army.

"In the Southwestern States," said the Provost Marshal General, "the impression prevails that Mexican citizens are liable for draft in the National Army, and this impression has caused the exodus to Mexico of many foreign laborers. Mexican citizens who have not made any declaration of intention to become citizens of the United States are no more liable to draft than any other aliens.

"Like other residents, Mexicans were required to register under the selective service act. They may be required to appear before the various local boards to prove the fact that they are not citizens of the United States. Upon satisfying the local board that they are aliens they will be exempted and not required to serve with United States forces."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Theodore Kaphan, former watchman at the Angel Island immigration station here, arrived under arrest from San Diego today to face the charge of conspiring to land Chinese illegally in the United States. He furnished bonds of $2000 for his appearance for examination before United States Commissioner Krull. J. S. McClymont, formerly an immigration guard, telephoned from Sacramento that he would surrender on the same charge as soon as he could reach San Francisco. The third development today in the Chinese smuggling expose was the arrest of H. Embert Lee, a Chinese attorney and notary, accused of altering official records relating to Chinese.

I CURE

Piles, Fistula

and All Rectal Diseases

Without an Operation

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others. I cure without surgery and my patients are not confined in bed and seldom lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment" but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

My Dear Dr. C. H. White:

As you well realize by the condition in which you found me: I had suffered thirty-five years from bleeding hemorrhoids from which I found myself reduced in flesh to a point I could not attend to my business. From your treatment I am completely restored to health and strength. I gladly testify to your ability to cure this malady as I am satisfied beyond a doubt that I am completely cured. I will answer any inquiries for the benefit of those afflicted likewise.

I am very sincerely yours,

Confessions of an Outlaw—Painless Parker

CHAPTER LIII.

It happens that I know only too well how a young man falls into the "ethical" web and gets smeared all over with its quicklime.

When my father annexed both me and a snug fortune at the same moment he passed fondly at his infant son and announced that no ordinary tradesman's job would do for him. He'd have to be a professional man—a doctor, say, who would have a "standing in the community" not permissible to the mere layman who worked with his hands and wasn't supposed to have any brains. The family was going to fix me up with an education and a social position all in one scoop.

The notion persisted in the parental brain, despite the sad object lessons, visible in our community, of lads who had been sent to college and returned with shrunken skins, clogged up with Latin, and with an exaggerated sense of their own value to the civilized world that made it extremely repugnant for them to have to recognize their humble and hard-working fathers and mothers in polite society.

It was such a wonderful thing to have, as a real possibility in the family, to "M. D." or a "D. S." that nothing would do but that I must be sent to the medico-factory to have the corners of my head rounded off with the professional jackplane.

That's how I happened to go to both medical and dental colleges and acquired a coat of "ethical" varnish that made me shine like a Japanese lacquered Buddha.

My folks? They were tickled to death. They rolled the word "Doctor" on their tongues until they had it all polished smooth. They figured that the social position of the family was now soundly established, and that was all that was needed.

What a blow it would be to them now if they could see their pride and joy advertising like a circus, pulling teeth off the port side of an automobile on the public street and being footingly referred to by the rest of the dental world as a "faker" and a "quack!" But there's a reason.

COAL SHORT, IS ADMISSION

Unprecedented Demand, Producer, Blamed.

Geological Survey Issues Statistical Warning.

Ohio Consumers Say Situation is a Serious One.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[illegible] ence of a general coal shortage admitted tonight by the Geological Survey, which attributes the situation not to the failure of the producers to do their best, but to unprecedented demand.

"The tremendous increase in manufacturing and transportation activity this year," said a statement issued today, "has created a demand for soft coal in excess of anything in the past, an increase in demand which is difficult to measure in exact terms, but which is certainly greater than the 10 per cent. by which production has increased. To meet the demand the operators have increased their output and is expected to [illegible] year with an increase of 10 per cent over 1916, the banner year, or 20 per cent. over 1915.

"In the second week of June the average daily production was more than 1,900,000 tons, the highest point yet attained."

A serious coal shortage in Ohio, fuel administrators were told today by a delegation of consumers who came to Washington to protest against lifting the embargo on coal shipment to Canada. 200 towns in the State representing more than 100, the delegation said, are entirely without coal and are unable to obtain supplies.

Mayors of some towns, they have seized carloads of coal as it came to the lakes and have apportioned it among the inhabitants.

PRIORITY DISTRIBUTION.

Orders to insure an increased supply of coal cars and a more equitable flow of fuel to the railroads have been determined upon by the fuel administration, which today announced the first of a series of orders to distribute coal on a priority basis and regulate the movement of coal cars.

The fuel administration also announced an upward revision of prices in certain outlying districts. Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia, prices in some districts are raised from $2 to $3.60 a ton for run-of-mine coal. In Eastern Kentucky, prices in several districts were raised from $1.50 to $2.50 a ton for run-of-mine coal.

This was the first revision of prices which, when set, was announced as tentative and subject to representations to the fuel administration by both operators and miners that an upward revision was imperative to meet demands for increases in wages.

UTAH COMPLAINTS.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 11.—[illegible] the United States government has halted the prosperity of the coal producers this year [illegible] the fixing of prices at the mouth, was the statement of William Gorton of the Aberdeen Company today in giving evidence before C. R. Marshall, [illegible] examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Gorton said he knew of instance where coal destined for California sold at $4 at the mines, but, since the President's order, only at $1.90 a ton.

The examiner is hearing evidence on the complaint of four companies, which charge that railroads practiced discrimination in the supply of cars to Utah mines.

SUNDAY CLOSING OF THEATERS URGED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 11.—The question of the advisability of attempting to get the proposition of the closing of motion-picture theaters on Sundays on the ballot at the November election has been decided in the negative by the Church Federation. The organization went on record, however, as opposed to Sunday theaters, and urged all pastors, Sunday-school superintendents, teachers and citizens to exert their influence against the patronage of such places of amusement.

VISIT APPRECIATED.

For the First Time in Its History Alhambra Obtains Chance to Welcome Governor.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Oct. 11.—When Gov. Stephens spoke here yesterday it was remarked that the Chamber of Commerce had been instrumental in bringing to the city the first Governor who ever made a public address here. This fact, as well as the reason for the Governor's visit—to arouse the people to their patriotic duty to buy Liberty Bonds—caused the High School auditorium to be packed to the doors.

A splendid programme, including music by the High School orchestra and vocal selections, preceded the first address of the evening, which was given by Mrs. Seward Simons of South Pasadena, who spoke on woman's work in helping to win the war.

In introducing Gov. Stephens, President Barnum of the Chamber of Commerce called the Governor's attention to the qualities which make Alhambra an ideal city. The community flag was pointed to as an emblem of Alhambra's patriotism.

The Governor told of meeting a little girl in the north who said her father was in the trenches in France fighting for "her and mother." He said he found in her statement the full meaning of the present war and he wanted the United States to stay in the fight until Germany is defeated. "We are in the war to a finish to preserve the life, liberty and freedom of the little children round about our doors and for the honor of our American women," he said. "If you do not believe the honor of American women is at stake let former Ambassador Gerard tell you what Germany has done to the women and children of Belgium. It is what the Germans would do to our women and children should they win the war."

With the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" the meeting closed and was followed by a big reception at Casa de la Palma, the Patterman residence on South First street, which was attended by hundreds.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Better Health For You In
STANDARD WHOLE WHEAT HEALTH BREAD

The Story of How That Good Old-Fashioned Bread Taste Came Back

Thousands have tried Standard Whole Wheat Health Bread because they believed in the whole wheat idea—and have discovered a new bread taste—a taste that reminded them strongly of the "bread mother used to make."

For it is made just as that bread, of the whole wheat, including bran, middlings and germ—all three left out in the making of modern white flour.

The bran was the first to be banished because it was coarse.

Next went the middlings and other portions of the outer shell of the wheat berry because they were too dark.

Then the germ was eliminated because millers found it was the portion of the flour that doesn't keep.

Shorn of these parts, modern flour is wonderfully white. It keeps indefinitely. But it leaves the bread lacking in many health giving properties, especially the natural mineral salts, which the human body needs.

The germ contains the fats and the natural oils of the wheat berry, which make bread more palatable and more digestible.

Many people are eating white bread who should not eat it at all. To those who want the beneficial effect of bran and at the same time enjoy the palatability of the finest homemade bread, we recommend

It contains the bran and middlings, supplies mineral salts which are the vital nutriment of bones, teeth, nerves. You'll notice the difference in your increased energy. It is Nature's cure for constipation. It's appetizing, natural, health-building. Order of your grocer to-day. If he hasn't it, telephone

The courtroom was crowded when they filed in and handed up their verdict.

It was the first important test of the Cartwright anti-trust law, and the verdict will have far-reaching results. It has been more than a court trial. The bakers contended that they were forced to raise the wholesale price of bread, which carried with it a raise in the retail price, because of the increased cost of the ingredients that go into the making of bread.

CRUX OF CASE.

The trial revealed how rapidly flour and other material has risen in price. The crux of the situation was as the District Attorney convinced the jury, that the bakers made money and that with a stock of flour on hand bought at a low figure there was no necessity to increase the price of bread to consumers.

It was also sharply brought out that when the edict went into effect, small grocers handling bread were

BILLY BUYS A BIG BLOCK OF BOCHE-BEATER BONDS.

BILLY SUNDAY subscribed for $25,000 of the Liberty Loan issue yesterday, and is expected to take more before another ten days pass. Billy put his signature to his subscription and made his 2 per cent. deposit at the Liberty Loan booth in front of the tabernacle.

Other large subscriptions reported yesterday were by the Los Alamitos Sugar Company, through J. Ross Clark; the Van Camp Seafood Company, through Frank Van Camp, and the Individual Underwriters' Corporation, through William M. Magee.

The meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon at the City Hall, at which Mayor Woodman, President Conwell of the City Council and many of the city department heads were to have conferred on the Liberty Bond campaign, was postponed yesterday until next week. A rousing meeting of county employees was held at the Hall of Records yesterday, at which W. C. Ketterman spoke for the bonds.

Final arrangements were made yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce to co-operate actively with the Liberty Loan committee and the bankers of Southern California in the reception to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Tuesday. The Reception Committee of the chamber, headed by E. W. Bagley, will greet Mr. McAdoo at the Santa Fe Station when he arrives at 4:30 p.m., and Gen. Robert Wankowski will make a short address of welcome.

R. H. Moulton, executive officer of the Liberty Loan Campaign Committee, made this statement yesterday:

"The second campaign in Southern California for the sale of Liberty Bonds is now in full swing. We have a fine organization, better, I think, than we had in the first campaign. Our workers are experienced now and the canvass will be more thorough than in the first drive. We have the vigorous co-operation of the banking interests, which are lined up solidly to make this and all other government loans a complete success and to guarantee the government all the funds it needs all the time to insure the winning of this war and the triumph of world-wide democracy over autocracy and brutal Prussianism.

"There remains after this week two weeks in which we must raise not less than $41,000,000 in Southern California, and, if we do all the Treasury Department wishes us to do, we must sell nearly $70,000,000 of the 4 per cent. bonds. It is a big undertaking, but not too big if we all pull together. We must expect every man and woman with $50 idle capital to buy at least one Liberty Bond. We must ask the wage earner who can save as much as $1 per week to buy at least one $50 bond."

C. F. Mason, commercial superintendent of the Southern California Telephone Company, last night announced that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its associates, which form the Bell System, have subscribed $5,000,000 to the second Liberty Loan.

Mr. Mason stated that employees were to be permitted to participate in the Liberty Loan subscriptions if they desire to do so.

"TRENCH AND CAMP" AN INSTANT HIT AT KEARNY.

Four Thousand Copies of Free Magazine Distributed to Soldiers.

CAMP KEARNY, Oct 11.—Four thousand copies of the first issue of Trench and Camp, the new weekly military magazine, devoted to the interests of the thirty-two National Guard cantonments throughout the United States, were distributed at Camp Kearny early today.

The issue for Camp Kearny was fresh from the press of the Los Angeles Times, and each of the 4000 copies was enjoyed by two men in khaki, who crowded in to read the bits of local gossip, the items of national interest, and to enjoy the pictures, both local and from the European war front.

Trench and Camp made an instant hit with the men, and the coming of the second issue next week is awaited with interest. On arrival of the papers at the camp the army Y.M.C.A. truck, with Telford Work at the wheel, was hustled up and down the long streets, leaving bundles with the first sergeant of each company for the soldiers.

Four pages are of local items, of particular interest to Camp Kearny, and four are of general military interest. The papers for the thirty-two cantonments are printed in newspaper plants throughout the country, the same items and cuts of general interest appearing in the copies for all of the cantonments, and the four local pages being different in each camp. The army Y.M.C.A. supplies much of the local news matter, though the regular staff of the paper also contributes, both of art and news. The only expense to the Y.M.C.A. is for the news print paper, The Times performing the editing, type-setting, engraving and printing free of all charge. The magazine is a gift to the soldiers.

CASE OF MENINGITIS.

With a case of cerebrospinal meningitis discovered in one of the regiments today, the army authorities have almost built and equipped an X-ray and bacteriological laboratory here since noon today. By morning the hospital building will be ready for use in handling the disease.

The case of the sick man was diagnosed this morning. Brig.-Gen. George H. Cameron, cantonment commander, at once issued orders that the laboratory be built. Surveyors were rushed to the base hospital site, and staked off the grounds for the building, which is to be 24x110 feet. This was at 11:15 a.m. Immediately after dinner seventy-five carpenters were set at work, the lumber having been carted to the scene during the lunch hour. Before dusk the framework was up, most of the siding on, and the roof in place. The cabinet work of the interior was to be built by gangs of carpenters during the night. Complete modern laboratory equipment is waiting in the hospital warehouse and will be installed as fast as the carpenters get out of the way. By breakfast time tomorrow morning the medical men and bacteriologists will be busy in the laboratory, making the tests and performing the labors that will prevent the spread of the disease.

Division Surgeon Lieut.-Col. A. Murray today authorized this statement: "A case of cerebrospinal meningitis has appeared in one of the regiments at Camp Kearny. In the army extreme care is always

CAPITALIST BUYS BIG PARK MANSION.

MODINI-WOOD HOUSE CHANGES OWNERSHIP HERE.

Former Home of Baroness von Zimmermann, Later Scene of Brilliant Social Functions, Becomes Property of Henry W. Keller—Twenty Rooms in Place.

One of the best known of the residential show places of Los Angeles, the beautiful house of Mr. and Mrs. C. Modini-Wood at No. 20 St. James Park, has just been purchased by Henry W. Keller, capitalist and large realty holder of this city, as a permanent home. The consideration, although not stated, is understood to have been one of the largest ever paid for a residence property in the city.

The house was built about ten years ago by the late Baroness von Zimmermann, being one of three palatial dwellings reared by the titled German woman during the decade in which she lived in Southern California, the others being at Beverly Hills and Oak Knoll. She occupied the St. James Park mansion but a short time, selling it to the Modini-Woods within a few months after its completion. The recent owners lived in the place until a year ago, when they took up their residence in Santa Monica.

The house contains over twenty rooms, including a large ballroom, and has been the scene of many brilliant social events. It is of brick and frame construction and on English lines. The site comprises nearly a acre, having a frontage of 200 feet, and is elaborately landscaped.

HIS CONVICTION WINS HER DECREE.

On the ground that he had been convicted of a felony, Mrs. Irma V. Peabody was granted a decree of divorce from Charles R. Peabody in Judge Wood's court yesterday. Peabody, who was formerly a school teacher at Santa Ana, is alleged to have mistreated a pupil. Certified copies of the records of the Orange county court, showing that Peabody had been sentenced to serve twenty-five years in the penitentiary, were introduced by Mrs. Peabody. Peabody was recently released on parole, it is said.

Big Purchase.

ANGELENO BUYS BOULDIN ISLAND IN SAN JOAQUIN.

ADDING to his already large interests in the famous delta land district of San Joaquin county, Lee A. Phillips, vice-president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, has just purchased the whole of Bouldin Island in the San Joaquin River from the H. Veorman Company and the Central Bank of Oakland. The island comprises 6165 acres and is about twenty miles northwest of Stockton. For it, Mr. Phillips is understood to have paid a consideration of $60 an acre.

The property is now a marsh, but will immediately be reclaimed and added to the cultivated area around it. The land has been leased to George Shima, the "potato king," on a given rental basis of $27 per acre a year and is to be taken over by him as fast as it is made available for agricultural purposes.

Bouldin Island was drained and cultivated many years before much of the best-known river land of today had been slated for reclamation, but was flooded in 1907 and has since been unused. Litigation has been principally responsible for this neglect. Twenty years ago the island was well known throughout Central California for its productiveness, and the canning of asparagus is declared to have been first started on this now submerged property.

Mr. Phillips has been actively interested in the reclamation of lands in the delta district for fifteen years, during which time he has been instrumental in bringing about the investment of considerable Southern California capital in the section. The California Delta Farms Company, of which he is president, has reclaimed and now owns 40,000 acres in the San Joaquin River delta to the west of Stockton, together with 27,000 acres of land on the Sacramento River some fifteen miles north, secured a year and a half ago from the Schloss interests.

In all, companies organized by Mr. Phillips have reclaimed 95,000 acres of land from the delta marshes, and, with the draining of Bouldin Island, this total will be brought up to over 101,000 acres. About 65 per cent. of the potatoes grown in California since 1905, according to one of the members of the Delta Farms Company, have come from these lands. On the company's Sacramento River tract, it is estimated by the same authority, the bean crop alone will this year total 150,000 sacks, valued at close to $1,500,000.

STRIKE IS ALL BUT A FIASCO.

Mill Workers go Out and the Mills go Right On.

Posts to be Filled in Short Time, Say Owners.

Many of Men will Return of Their Own Accord.

Two hundred and seventy-five cabinet makers and millworkers struck in Los Angeles yesterday morning at 9 o'clock because the mill owners failed to sign the conciliation agreement which was submitted to the Southern California Mill Owners Association a few days ago by Federal Mediators Charles T. Connell and Harris Weinstock.

The strike was ordered following a meeting of the Millworkers' Union Wednesday night at which 330 card men were present. When the strike actually went into effect there were only 276 union men involved. Only one mill was actually shut down and that was a concern not represented in the association of mill owners. In many of the biggest mills there were only from two to five men absent from their benches.

EFFECTS SLIGHT.

Only four establishments are noticeably affected by the strike. They are the mills of the Hammond Lumber Company, the Pacific Sash & Door Company, the Southern California Hardwood and Manufacturing Company, and the Niederer Company. The Hammond mill lost about half of its workmen, but it was the stronghold of the union. The Blinn, E. K. Wood and Kerckhoff-Cuzner mills did not lose a man.

The Standard Sash & Door factory, which is not a member of the Mill Owners Association, was completely shut down by the strike, because all of its employees were union men. The Standard had not previously been considered as a strike center, because it was with the Mill Owners Association that the Federal mediators had been trying to deal in the matter of terms looking toward a satisfactory settlement of labor difficulties. There were fifteen machinists and four helpers in the Standard factory.

There are in the neighborhood of twenty mills slightly hit by the strike. In some of them there are two or three men absent; in others there are four or five gone. Yesterday afternoon the mill owners found non-union men to take the places vacated by most of the strikers, and it is believed that within three or four days the ranks will be filled again and business will go along as usual.

The first demonstration of union methods was observed last night at quitting time, when about 150 men who struck at the Hammond mills went over to the Pacific Sash & Door factory, surrounded the buildings, and passed out cards to all the workmen as they started home.

Upon the cards thus distributed were statements to the effect that the union men in that mill had struck because the mill owners had refused to grant what the union believed was a fair and just time and wage demand. The workmen who received the cards were requested to quit work and assist the union men in winning their strike.

There was no violence. The union men evidently thought that the "rough stuff" wouldn't go. All the mills involved in the strike are under heavy guard, and the watch will be doubled, it is said, until the strike ends.

NO SHUT-DOWN.

J. L. Flannigan, secretary of the Mill Owners' Association, stated last night that no mills will shut down and that he expects to see them all working full forced within a week.

"As I canvassed the situation," says he, "I found that there were quite a good many union men sticking to their posts. Others who had struck told me that they would return to their jobs within a day or two—that they only left their posts when the strike order went into effect, in order to avoid disobeying a strike order the first day."

When a full report of the Wednesday night strike meeting of the Millworkers and Cabinet Makers' Union was secured, it was learned that there were 330 union men present, 191 voted yes on the strike proposition, 111 voted no, and 17 did not vote.

PHONE MEN TALK STRIKE.

General Walkout by Coast Employees of Bell System Threatened.

A general strike of linemen and electricians of the Bell telephone system on the Pacific Coast on October 21 is threatened, according to local unionites. The electrical workers held a secret meeting last night at the Labor Temple, at which it is reported the strike was discussed and reports from delegates to San Francisco heard.

Such a strike at this time would seriously interfere with United States government business, as fully one-half of the extra work, in the way of extensions, by the "Sunset" company is on government account.

It is also reported that an attempt is being made to organize the women operators with a view to striking later on. Some of the local Sunset men seem to favor striking before October 21, believing that a strike would interfere with the telephone merger now in progress.

NEW CITY MOTORS.

Police Officials Present at Tryout of Machines for Use of the Traffic Squad.

Twenty-five new motorcycles, to be used by the motorcycle sergeants of the traffic squad, were tested out yesterday on a section of the San Fernando Road. The test was made under the direction of the factory agents from whom the machines were purchased by the city.

Mayor Woodman, Chief Butler, Rev. McWilliams, secretary to the Mayor, Acting Lieutenant Grogan, in charge of the traffic bureau, and other police officials, including the "speed cops," watched the test.

The machines averaged from seventy-five to eighty-four miles per hour and were driven over a ten-mile stretch of the San Fernando Road.

For several months past accidents in the motorcycle squad have been frequent, and in one instance, an officer, Sergt. J. A. Ellsworth, was killed, because of the undependable condition of a wornout motorcycle. With the new machines the apprehension of speeders will be vigorously prosecuted by the speed officers.

DEFER SENDING OF LAST QUOTA.

Dispatch of Fifteen Per Cent. Men is Postponed.

Order Shortage of Previous Contingents Away Today.

To Release Angelenos at Camp with Appeals Pending.

Chairman George J. Denis of local board No. 17, yesterday received telegraphic orders from Adjt.-Gen. Borree that only the shortage of the second 40 per cent. contingent was to be sent to American Lake tomorrow. The date for the sending of the last 15 per cent. quota and the colored men drafted being indefinitely postponed. This board has approximately 125 men ready for entrainment, most of whom are anxious to get into the army, but under the latest orders only twenty-three men, which is the actual number short on the last 40 per cent. contingent, can be sent.

It was learned yesterday that the Adjutant-General's office had taken action on several cases of men who were sent to American Lake by local boards, in spite of the fact that they had appeals pending before the Federal District Board, and that the men whose appeals had been allowed would be released from the camp and sent home. There have been a number of such cases where the Federal board had not as yet acted on the appeals filed, and through clerical error had certified the men back to the local boards. The local boards, having no knowledge of the pendancy of an appeal, sent the men with their quotas.

In discussing the matter yesterday, Seth R. Brown, secretary of the Federal District Board, said: "There have been a few such cases, but when it is taken into consideration that this board has had insufficient help from the start, this is not to be wondered at. It will not occur again. Hereafter, when a man files a claim with this board we will at once notify his local board that the claim has been filed and ask that he not be sent until we have had time to pass on his appeal. In some cases men filed three appeals. As few of the boards sent their documents to us in envelopes, the different appeals became separated and were acted upon at different times by different members of the board, the result being that when the first claim was disposed of, if denied, the man's name was certified back to his local board and they, as they had a right to under the law, sent the man to camp, being in total ignorance of

ANCIENT HOME FALLS IN DUST.

Progress Topples Walls that Withstood Ages.

Adobe Relic of Early Days to be Torn Down.

Site is for New Institutional Church at Plaza.

One of the oldest, if not the most ancient, residence buildings in Los Angeles today is disappearing. By tomorrow night its thick adobe walls will have been toppled over and within a few days thereafter the site will be cleared and ready for the beginning of a great institutional church.

The structure is the old Olivers adobe, located at the northwest corner of Los Angeles and Marchessault streets, opposite the old Plaza. For many years it has been pointed out to the tourist as the one-time center of Los Angeles social life, and also as the residence of Gen. John C. Fremont.

The old adobe figures not only in many early incidents of the history of Los Angeles, but it holds a conspicuous place in the first real estate "boom" of this city. Prof. J. M. Guinn, in his article on "The Passing of the Ranchos," which appears in the 1915-16 publication of the Historical Society of Southern California, says that the historic house mentioned was built in the later thirties. It is said to have been erected by Don Tiburcio Tapia, one of the aristocrats of that period. At the time a residence fronting on the Plaza was considered the most select of the city. For many years the adobe was the home of Don Augustin Olivera, a prominent citizen of pueblo days. He was a judge under the old Mexican regime and acted as a commissioner for the Mexican government in the treaty of Cahuenga and was one of the signers of that pact with Gen. Fremont.

THE FIRST JUDGE.

When under American occupation Judge Olivera was made the first county judge of Los Angeles. At that time there was a Court of Sessions, composed of the county judge and two justices of the peace, who performed the duties now carried on by the Board of Supervisors.

Henry Dalton was a prominent figure in the first real estate boom here. At that time lotteries were common and they were taken up by the real estate folk. Mr. Dalton's plan provided for the "distribution" of real estate, horses, cattle, etc., through the sale of tickets and a drawing, the tickets being only $1 each. The old Olivera home was one of the big features in this event. In his advertisement Mr. Dalton referred to this property as follows:

"Among other highly attractive and valuable features offered in this enterprise is one of the most magnificent private dwellings in the southern country, now occupied by the Hon. Judge Olivera, fronting eighty-six feet on the main Plaza, with wings extending back ninety-five feet, possessing an open court within, a beautiful corridor along the entire front, with numerous apartments elegantly finished and combining every convenience pertaining to a first-class residence. Value, $11,000."

In his article on the "Passing of the Ranchos", Prof. Guinn says of this property:

LAST OF OLD HOMES.

"It is the last of the Plaza fronts that gave once the homes of the pueblo aristocracy and almost the last relic of the adobe age of our city.

"After it ceased to be the palatial home, as Dalton described it, in the later fifties and early sixties, when Satan and his imps had their innings at the Plaza, it became a saloon and gambling hell. Nigger Alley, the Plaza's chief tributary from the south, was known as the wickedest street on earth. After several vigilance committees had regulated the morals of the Plaza by hemp and guile the old house became the habitation of the 'heathen Chinee.' When dilapidation and decay had reduced it until it was unfit even for Mongolians to inhabit it was converted into a hay barn and coal yard."

The Plaza Institutional Church is to occupy the site of the old adobe. It will be conducted under the auspices of the Methodist Board of Latin-American Missions. It is planned to erect an eight-story structure at a cost of approximately $150,000. Provision is to be made for extended lines of institutional work.

RAILWAY ORDERED TO EXTEND ITS SERVICE.

The Los Angeles Railway Company was ordered yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission to extend its South Park-avenue line from South Park and Mauson avenues to Sixty-first street and Moneta avenue.

COURT'S ORDER OUSTS NORTON.

Convicted County Supervisor Officially Removed from Office by Judge.

Judge Wilbur yesterday signed the formal judgment and ordered it recorded on the minutes, removing R. H. Norton of the Supervisorial district from office. The court stated that the judgment was effective at once, the statute which automatically acted as a stay of execution for thirty days having been held unconstitutional.

Mr. Norton returned to his office and started to clean out his desk. He has some odds and ends of county business to close up or hand over to the board.

He has been a mining engineer for thirty years and is also a lawyer.

ARMY DOCTOR SUES.

Dr. Leon Shulman, prominent physician and surgeon, who, prior to his joining the United States Medical Corps, resided at the Percival apartments, No. 645 South Hill street, yesterday filed a suit for divorce against Hilda Shulman. Dr. Shulman is now at Camp Kearny, Linda Vista, and could not be reached last night.

SLANE'S STORY BEING RIDDLED.

Murder Suspect's Statements are Disproved.

Effort to Shift Blame Likely to be Fruitless.

Watch Found on Prisoner the Property of Victim?

A strong web of circumstantial evidence is being woven around Otis Dan Slane, accused of the murder of Israel Botwin near Carlsbad, San Diego county, pending his arraignment.

This chain of evidence is being forged a link at a time, say Deputy Sheriffs Wright and Strong, by their disproving statements made by the young man in his efforts to shift the blame for the crime upon his companion, known as Harry Brant.

When returned to Los Angeles Tuesday, Slane said that Brandt hired Botwin to take them to San Diego, and that he (Slane) was picked up at the Alexandria Hotel. Yesterday the deputy sheriffs said they found several persons who said they saw Slane engage Botwin for the trip, adding that the prisoner and Brant entered the machine together at Sixth and Hill streets.

Slane claimed the ownership of the watch which the officers found in his suit case. The deputy sheriffs say that yesterday they ascertained that it was temporarily the property of Botwin. Botwin was the owner of a gold watch. Shortly before he started upon his fateful trip, he took his watch to a Seventh-street jeweler to have it repaired. He was given a silver watch to wear until his own could be fixed. It was this watch that he were when he left Los Angeles, and which was found in Slane's suit case, and claimed by him as his own.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the officers received a telegram stating that officials working in conjunction with them on the case "somewhere in the Southwest," had found the trail of Brant and expect to have him in custody within the next forty-eight hours.

TRAFFIC HALTS AS RAIL MAN IS BORNE TO GRAVE.

TELEGRAPH tickers were silent and every piece of rolling stock on the California Southern Railway was stopped for a full hour yesterday afternoon, while loving hands laid the remains of Charles Benjamin Cox to rest in Rosedale Cemetery. Mr. Cox was superintendent of the line until death claimed him Wednesday.

Funeral services were held at the chapel of Pierce Bros. & Co., No. 810 South Flower street. The pallbearers were railroad associates of the deceased. A big delegation of employees were in attendance, while the office force at Blythe Junction, which is the north end of the line, gave a massive floral piece which showed a railroad semaphore with the track cleared.

Mr. Cox was a native of Elgin, Ill., and was 60 years of age. He began his railroad career as an office boy for the Chicago and Alton and in his time climbed up through every position to that of superintendent and general manager of important lines.

For fifteen years he was connected with the Mexican Central Railroad, but he left there to join J. M. Neeland, some years ago, in the construction of the Pan-American Railway, which runs south from the Isthmus of Tehuantepec to Central America. After finishing his work there he became president of the Blythe Construction Company, which built the California Southern from Blythe Junction south into the Palo Verde Valley. After the line was finished he became superintendent of the road.

Mr. Cox is survived by a widow and two children in this city, and two sisters, who reside in Elgin, Ill.

WARN AGAINST FAKE ANTI-SALOON MEASURE

Warning Angelenos to beware of the fake "anti-saloon" petition being circulated under the pretenses that it is backed by the Anti-Saloon League, the Campaign Committee yesterday stated that the petition carried by Miss Mildred Kern into the office of W. C. Condit Wednesday and which caused a battery action to be filed against the man, was fraudulent.

This petition, the committee says, does not confine liquor-selling social clubs to the present downtown liquor zone; permits the sale of liquor with meals in cafes and restaurants from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. and does not put a dry zone around the military establishments at the harbor.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FROM RAILWAY LOST.

It required but a single ballot by the jury considering the case of Dr. F. S. Harden against the Santa Fe Railway to recover $10,000, alleged to be due on account of the death of Miss Mildred Harden at Irvine May 5, 1916, to bring in a verdict in favor of the defendant corporation.

Miss Harden was killed in an accident while a party, consisting of "Wild Bill" (W. R.) Ruess, his wife, two daughters and Miss Harden were making an automobile trip to Capistrano. Misses Dorothy and Muriel Ruess were also killed and Mrs. Ruess was seriously injured. Mr. Ruess was severely shaken up.

The evidence showed that the engineer rang the bell and sounded the whistle in plenty of time for Ruess to understand that a train was coming.

You Can't Dodge Disease Germs

The air that is loaded with disease germs appears no different than pure air. Disease germs are invisible even when in millions.

You know they exist, because doctors with microscopes see them and trace diseases to their agency. You know they must be there, also, because you can give no other reason for healthy persons being suddenly stricken with disease.

But you cannot dodge these ravagers of health. If they attack you, it is an unseen battle between your health and their poison.

You can attack them in many places, exterminate them before they can bring disease to you and yours. Lysol is your weapon. A 25c bottle of Lysol makes two gallons of disinfectant killing all germs, a 50c bottle makes five gallons. Where disease germs breed in the home—sinks, drain-pipes, defective plumbing, toilets, garbage cans and damp woodwork—there sprinkle Lysol Disinfectant. When disease is in the neighborhood (and when is it not?) you can thus make your home a safe refuge. Otherwise, your home may be the very place where disease takes heaviest toll.

There is only One True Lysol—the reliable disinfectant of large hospitals. It is put up in three sizes: 25c, 50c and $1.00, sold everywhere, and each package and bottle is marked with this name written thus—

Lysol Disinfectant

Lysol Toilet Soap

Lysol Toilet Soap contains Lysol, and therefore protects the skin from germ infection. It is refreshingly soothing and healing and helpful for improving the skin. Ask your dealer. If he has none, ask him to order it for you.

Lysol Shaving Cream

Lysol Shaving Cream also contains Lysol, and kills germs on razor and shaving brush (where germs abound), guards the tiny cuts from infection, and gives the antiseptic shave. If your dealer has none, ask him to order a supply for you.

Announcement.

GRIFFITH COMING.

WITH HIS COMPANY HE WILL RETURN FROM EUROPE.

By Grace Kingsley.

That D. W. Griffith will shortly be in this country with his company, consisting of Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Bobby Barron and others, is the latest news from London. A cablegram received from Lillian Gish yesterday by Frank Woods, superintendent of productions for Artcraft and Lasky, announced the return soon of the aggregation.

According to letters recently received by Kate Bruce and others, great hardships were suffered by the picture people, despite the many courtesies shown them in France and England. Especially was the trip from Paris to London a difficult one, the journey being slow and perilous. No one slept for a single instant during the whole journey. The journey across the channel was made very slowly, the party fearing each moment might be its last. William Bitzer, writing his wife, who is here, stated that Lillian Gish was the nerviest one in the crowd. Indeed, it was she who soothed the fears of Mommer Gish and Sister Dorothy. Lillian made many trips as close to the front as was permissible, and she spent several days in the hospitals. There is a rumor that a French captain of artillery has been very attentive to Miss Gish during her stay in France, but no serious results have been announced.

Fairbanks Leaves.

On receipt of a telegram from his wife in New York, stating she is seriously ill, Douglas Fairbanks will leave today for the metropolis, where he will remain until Mrs. Fairbanks is able to be moved, when he will bring her West with him.

Being pushed for time on his next production, Fairbanks will carry his whole staff with him, including Anita Loos, head of his scenario department, and John Emerson, director, not to mention his invaluable Japanese valet. George M. Cohan now has a rival in his train-writing activities, for en route Miss Loos will write a new story for Fairbanks.

Anti-Cupid Note.

Mae Marsh is not going to be married. Not at present, anyhow, and never, she declares, to Brooke Spencer, as lately announced.

In a tearful telegram to Anita Loos, Miss Marsh wishes her anti-matrimonial plans scattered broadcast, and that the rumor of her engagement be denied. While it is understood Mr. Spencer was exceedingly attentive to Miss Marsh for a time, the famous film star declares there was never anything more than friendship between them.

War Pictures Greatest Ever.

Of mounting grippingness and spectacular quality are the war pictures depicting the German retreat at Arras, as they are being unrolled at the Orpheum, and the second installment of which was given a private review yesterday.

I think this is the first case on record when a battlefield's dead are shown lying as they fell, or in which such graphic close-ups have been revealed of the wounded on stretchers (there is one brave fellow who reached up to wave at the camera man,) or in which, in short, all the grim business of war is revealed.

These pictures show at close range the advance of the Allied troops, their invincible progress through barb-wire entanglements and their work with the machine guns; and, lending a never-to-be-forgotten human touch, their courageous advance under fire.

The whole sense of the war is conveyed in these tremendously graphic films. Indeed, when the view is finished one veritably feels he has been with the soldier on the battlefield.

Wanted, a Change.

Elsie Janis, during her recent stay in the city, was asked, one Sunday morning, to sit on the platform at Billy Sunday's preachment. She sent back word that when her week's work was over, she was finished with show business, and preferred spending Sunday morning at the beach.

Drama League Will Pour.

A tea riot will be the order of the day at the Friday Morning Club House next Wednesday afternoon, with the Drama League as hosts, and the Morosco company, including Donald Bowles, Mr. Morosco's western manager, as guests. Fair members of the Drama League will pour for Richard Dix, Betty Brice, Douglas MacLean, Nancy Fair, Harland Tucker, Harry Duffield, Joseph Eggenton, and all the other Morosco-ites, from 4 until 6.

Besides the mild exhilaration caused by the tea, the pleasure of the occasion will be further enhanced by offerings in the form of recitations and music by Mr. Tucker, Miss Fair, and others.

Fun Factory Subdued.

It is reported that four comedy companies have been disbanded out at Universal, leaving the comic field to Lee Moran and his partner. Hal Cooley has been retained, but in drama, it being considered by the U authorities that Mr. Cooley might be made to forget his Keystone and had a chance of shining in a serious role.

Hauled Out of the Silence.

The lady who plays the drunk's wife in Billie Reeves's act at the Orpheum, and who in the second scene appears in dishabille and bed, actually went to sleep the other night in that bed, and failed to get her cue!

Billie kept on improvising lines; he even drank all the milk from the baby's bottle to keep the situation moving, but it was not until he spoke loud lines in the lady's ear that she came to.

"I'm-m a-a-l—hic—dressed up and no—hic—place to go!" exclaimed Billie exasperated, "and you—hic—you ain't all dressed up—but I can tell you—hic—where to go!"

Not for Hers!

Marie Dressler visited the Fox studio the other day, and was watching Theda Bara film "Du Barry." She was close to the camera lines as the mob scenes were being taken.

"Never mind," called Director Edwards jokingly, "just stay in, Miss Dressler; you're all right."

"No, sir-ee!" exclaimed Miss Dressler, as she hastily backed out of the scene. "Do you think I'm going to have audiences all over the country say: 'My gawd, I didn't know she was as old as that!'"

CHARGE ROBBERY.

A robbery warrant was secured from the District Attorney's office yesterday by Detective McDuffy against David Pollock, a negro, who is suspected of attempting to entice three young women into an auto Sunday evening. From one of these young women, it is said, Pollock, upon her refusal to accompany him in his machine, took $3 from her purse.

FILM COLONY FIGHT FOR A LIBRARIAN.

The film colony of Hollywood is up in arms over the reported removal of Mrs. Eleanor B. Jones as librarian of the Hollywood library, the principal reference place for the entire film industry of Southern California. It is stated by the film people that political influence is being used to place Mrs. Jones in some out-of-the-way library.

Since the establishment of the film colony in Hollywood, it is stated, Mrs. Jones, as head of the local library, has made special effort to supply the studios with the data required in making their pictures, as well as suggesting reference books to actors and actresses wishing to study particularly famous characters.

Mrs. Jones is an especial favorite among the people of the studios, especially the women and young girls, owing to the fact that she is one of the founders and prime movers of the now nationally-known Studio Club, the home of many of the younger actresses of the several studios.

Mrs. Jones is said to have conceived the idea for a girls' club after talking to a number of the girls who visited the library night after night in preference to attending the beach cafes or wandering around the streets. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. William C. De Mille, Mrs. Jesse L. Lasky, Lula Warrington and a number of other women interested in the young girls of the studio, induced the Hollywood Board of Trade and the several film companies to advance the money for the first year's rent for a permanent meeting place for the girls. A beautiful home was secured and the club has been most popular ever since. Just what caused the trouble between Mrs. Jones and the library board could not be learned last night.

IN NAME OF LOVE.

Stole to Get Money to Help Woman Break Drug Habit is Startling Turn in Burglary Case.

When Lee Y. Carson was arraigned for sentence before Superior Judge McCormick yesterday, having been convicted of second-degree burglary for stealing a quantity of clothing from the room of H. J. Loveland, No. 830 South Olive street, it developed that the defendant stole in an effort to get money to help a woman break away from the drug habit.

Although it was not brought out in court, it was stated by officers that the woman caused quite a stir in police circles several weeks ago by accusing certain members of the department with trafficking in narcotics.

Carson and the woman, whose name was not mentioned, were once infatuated with one another, it appears. After a time she turned her affections toward another man. Some time after that, and following the burglary, Carson met the woman at a public dance hall. She asked him to waltz with her. He refused. The next day the police received an anonymous telephone call which later resulted in the arrest of Carson. It is said that the "woman in the case" "turned up Carson" to get even for his not dancing with her.

COUNCIL CONCLUDES ASSESSMENT PROTESTS

The Council late yesterday concluded its hearing of protests against the assessments made in connection with the proposed opening of South Broadway from Pico to Washington street. The Council's report will be made public next Monday afternoon.

That a few of the assessments will be readjusted was the indication at the conclusion of the hearing, but members of the Council said they were opposed to any radical changes.

exercised on the appearance of any infectious disease, and every precaution is taken to prevent its spreading.

REGIMENT ISOLATED.

"The entire regiment in which the case arose has been promptly isolated and quarantined, and no fear of an epidemic is entertained."

The regiment in which the patient was enlisted was at once removed from its present location and encamped on a distant part of the grounds. Guards were thrown out and all persons were kept away from both the new and old camps. All trash from the old camp was piled and burned. As well as erecting the new building, the army engineers built a road to the building during the afternoon. Electricians installed a lighting system, so that the workmen have the brightness of day in which to work tonight.

The energy with which the work is being pursued is characteristic of Uncle Sam's career of the men in khaki. No labor was too great, no expense was even considered, when it came to the matter of the health and safety of the troops. The laboratory was needed. Within twenty-four hours a modern laboratory with the finest obtainable equipment and the most experienced professional staff is to be provided.

Capt. G. A. Christensen, construction engineer, and Lieut. Charles S. Rogers, building engineer, have been in charge of the building. The new road to the site was constructed under the direction of Lieut. Edward H. Deets, in charge of roads and grading.

Baffling.

STRANGE PROWLER FRIGHTENS WOMEN.

VISITOR BELIEVED MAN IN WOMAN'S CLOTHES.

Mysterious Figure Found Prone on Grounds of Convent Makes Move to Attack Three Girls—Police Called, but Intruder Escapes Through the Garden.

While a squad of detectives from the Central Station were searching the premises and vicinity of the Cathedral Chapel convent at No. 826 Green avenue for a prowler late last night, the mysterious visitor, believed to have been a man dressed in feminine attire, escaped from the garden of the sisters' home by running through an ally and disappearing in some adjoining back yard.

The police were sent for when three young women, two of them inmates of the institution, who were approaching the house, were startled by seeing a woman's figure lying prone on the ground near the entrance, making an attempt to lurch forward as the trio drew near. The young women ran back to Ninth street, and crossing on the other side of the house, entered the convent and telephoned for the police.

In the meantime, the detectives were told, the mysterious stranger crawled to the rear of the garden and there stealthily paced back and forth. The size of the strange visitor, and the peculiar walk, made the sisters believe it was a man dressed as a woman, they told Detectives Blue and Leon, who were in the posse that searched the convent grounds.

When the detectives scattered to search the neighborhood, a figure was seen to dart from behind a rose bush and escape in a nearby yard. The police believe it was the same person who recently attempted to get into several houses in the neighborhood.

APARTMENT ROBBED.

Mrs. Marie Franklin of No. 1127 East Eleventh street, reported to the police yesterday that her apartment was robbed of several hundred dollars' worth of jewelery early yesterday morning.

Bakers Plan Fight.

informed that unless they sold bread for 15 cents a loaf their supplies would be cut off. The bakers denied these statements; they denied that they had combined to force the price of bread, or that a vote had been taken or that the retail price of bread had been discussed at the now famous meeting on April 26, last.

The evidence was strong that a committee from the meeting had waited on Mr. Ralphs to urge him to sell bread at the combine price and that the committee had been told the bakers could fix any price they chose, but that they could not run his business.

It was necessary to get the big cut-rate grocers in on the combine to insure its success. This was the strong card of the District Attorney for evidence was produced to show that the combine price was cut under and the 15-cent loaf took a tumble.

STATEMENT BY DEFENSE.

W. N. Goodwin, chief counsel for the defense, stated:

"The court, having given our instructions as intended, I don't see how the jury could follow those instructions and reach the verdict it did.

"The bakers individually expressed themselves as dumbfounded. They believed that the amendment to the Cartwright act expressly provided held it lawful for them to do as they did, in furtherance of trade. They blame the trouble they got into, first on the increased cost of ingredients which made it unprofitable to bake bread at the then prevailing wholesale price, and second, on the City Council, which passed the twenty-four-ounce loaf ordinance. To comply with the ordinance they said they were forced to raise the wholesale price."

The verdict of the jury carries with it everything that the District Attorney contended for. The defendants were charged with a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court. In view of the seriousness of the conspiracy, the District Attorney is not prone to plead for leniency. The defendants were accused of knowingly, wilfully, unlawfully and fraudulently, with the intent to destroy full and free competition in the sale in this city, outside of the county, of bread, April 26, last, and with wilfully, knowingly and unlawfully entering into a trust, combine or conspiracy to fix the retail price of bread at 15 cents to dealers and consumers and to control and establish the wholesale price of bread at 12 cents, precluding free competition.

Mr. Woolwine, in his argument, arrayed several of the prominent defendants, charging them with failing memory and stating that at the boosted price of bread they stood to coin money. His argument was an appeal for punishing men who speculate in foodstuffs at the expense of the consumer.

WOOLWINE'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Woolwine made the following formal statement:

"The conviction of the bread trust is a victory for the people with far-reaching results, and it would have been nothing less than a disaster had the verdict been otherwise. It will not only have its effect in the county of Los Angeles, but will constitute a warning to food speculators of all kinds throughout the State of California. This is as I am informed, the first real test of the effectiveness of the so-called anti-trust law, although it has been on the statute books ten years.

"It is fortunate indeed that the people were able to secure a courageous and conscientious jury in this case, who did not hesitate to do their duty where great and powerful interests were involved.

"The Cartwright law lacks a great deal of being perfect in that there are many combinations which constitute a stifling of competition and a restraint of legitimate trade which are not covered by this law; and such defects should in my opinion be speedily cured by the Legislature at its next session.

"The practice of cornering foodstuffs and of combining so as to deprive the people of their right to legitimate competition in business, thereby making the necessaries of life so costly as to be beyond the reach of the poor, is to my mind, one of the most serious offenses of which a combination of men may be guilty. For, in the last equation, the people are the ones who are made to suffer want and privation, while those possessing positions of affluence and wealth further enrich themselves by such unlawful practices."

Near Tragedy.

SON ENDS HIS LIFE; FATHER TRIES, TOO.

DESPONDENT MAN SLASHES WRISTS SEVERELY.

Injured Victim of Own Act Gives an Incoherent Explanation. Thought to Have Brooded Over Suicide of His Boy, Which Occurred a Week Ago.

"They're taking the young men to war and leaving us old fellows behind," was the only explanation offered by Fritz Klages, 63 years old, when he was brought to the Receiving Hospital from his home at No. 1548 West Twenty-first street, where he was found with his throat and wrists cut, with suicidal intent, according to the police last night. Under the personal supervision of Chief Police Surgeon Gilmer, the man was given emergency treatment, with chances for recovery, the physicians say. Later Klages was removed to the County Hospital and entered in the psychopathic ward, to be held for observation.

The man, who is the father of five boys and six girls, was found by Albert Klages, a son, in the shed. He had been brooding over the fate of another son, Henry, who on the 6th inst. committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. The youth was but recently passed by the draft board, but was melancholy and not in his right mind, the police were told. After the funeral Saturday morning, the father became greatly oppressed and is said to have threatened suicide. Reports made to the detectives last night were that Klages was under the influence of liquor when he slashed his throat and wrists.

TRIES TO END LIFE.

Worried by Debts and Illness of Wife, Soldier Shoots Self—May Prove Fatal.

Worried by the debts he owed his fellow soldiers and by the illness of his wife, Private Paul E. Thompson, of the Twenty-first Infantry, stationed at San Diego, attempted suicide here yesterday morning. He shot himself in the left breast, in a rooming-house at No. 412 East Fifth street.

Thompson was taken to the Receiving Hospital where he was treated by Police Surgeon Zorb, who stated that the man cannot live. Papers were found in the soldier's clothes which indicate that he is heavily in debt. Mrs. Thompson is in the San Diego County Hospital. She is not expected to live.

FREE PUBLICITY.
Harry Thaw has been sued for $650,000 by a youth he is alleged to have flogged a year ago. If Harry K. isn't mighty careful he's going to get his name in a newspaper.

SOUNDS BETTER.
A Japanese mission is soon to visit Washington to seek the sanction of the United States government for combined American and Japanese development of a big mining project in China. Well, on the face of it, that sounds a little better than—some things—you know!

CAMOUFLAGE PLUMBING.
A local plumber is advocating camouflage plumbing. He believes that even an old gas pipe can be made to look beautiful in process of being installed. No one will object to that sort of work if the plumbers will also camouflage their charges and make a bill for $5 look like 50 cents.

ALWAYS BLOOMING.
Lovers of the sweet old sentimental songs can be thankful that Thomas Moore never lived in Southern California, for if he had "The Last Rose of Summer" would never have been written. There is no such thing as a last rose of summer here. There is a beginning of what is termed the fall season, but there's really no close of summer weather and certainly never an end of roses.

FEWER FAIDURES.
Accurate figures of arithmetic are unlike figures of rhetoric, they won't lie for anybody. Nobody ever knew the multiplication table to be guilty of a falsehood.
R. G. Dun & Co. report that for the nine months just ended the commercial failures in the United States number only 10,737 and involve $141,950,033 of defaulted indebtedness. For a similar period in 1916 the failures were 13,250 and the amount involved was $154,536,707, and in 1915, for the same nine months, the failures were 17,288 for $361,464,060. The present returns are the best since 1911.
Yet more people are in business than ever before.

WHERE PACIFISTS MEET.
The pacifists have not entirely abandoned their meetings because of newspaper criticism, police interference, menace of patriotic mob molestation and a possibility of having their speakers greeted with an "ovation" of eggs well stricken in years.
The orators of the "People's Council" have resorted to camouflage. They meet in freight elevators and in temples of Cloacina and other unfrequented places.
The new nonpartisan league of North Dakota asserts that it is behind the government—away and away behind it. It is for repeal of the draft, for keeping our soldiers at home, for letting the rich men buy all the Liberty Bonds and for being agin the government generally. It avoids mobs by sending forth printed copies of the speeches of its orators.

EMBARGO ON LUMBER.
The rule with respect to lumber shipments from the Northwest has been, until recently, that shippers should pay freight on the actual weight when cars are loaded to their full visible capacity. The railroads recently promulgated a new rule compelling shippers to pay freight on an arbitrary minimum weight.
Shipments of lumber from the inland empire have averaged 1000 carloads a week. The lumber companies would not stand the new rule and embargoed shipments so that they have dropped from 150 carloads to ten carloads a day. The lumber companies have not shut down their mills, but are piling up the lumber. Lumber at eastern points has trebled in price, but most of the lumber on hand has been contracted for at the old rates.
Los Angeles will be but slightly affected, for most of the lumber used here comes from Puget Sound and Columbia River territory with which there is water communication.

WHEN THE BELL RINGS.
The Republicans in Congress loyally and earnestly supported all of the war legislation. The fighting and pulling back and carping and criticising were done by the Democrats, and but for Republican support the administration could not have secured the legislation it needed.
When Congress meets in December the big war legislation will be out of the way, and Republicans can and will, without obstructing war preparedness, have their say concerning inefficiency in many departments, extravagance, wastefulness, failure to recognize any but Democrats in the conduct of the war, extreme partisanship in all civil appointments, and the maintenance in office of a Secretary of War who characterized Washington's Valley Forge soldiers as drunken thieves, and a Secretary of the Navy who does not know the difference between a fore topmast and a marlin spike.
The Times predicts that Republican tongues will wag in Congress in December, and wag effectively. "Look out for the engine when the bell rings."

THE RISE AND FALL OF THE GOO-GOO.

LIKE dead leaves swept away by the winds of autumn the "Goo-goo" politicians are tumbling down. Los Angeles is recovering from a political malady which, like a certain disease of the skin, has run its course of seven years. Hypocrisy and cant have served their term; the seven fat years for the professional uplifters have ended—and present indications point to a hard winter for our reformers for revenue only.

As exposure follows exposure, as mask after mask is swept aside, the average citizen is beginning to look back upon the seven years of "progressive" misrule as on a nightmare from which he has just been roused. Political bosses, newspaper bosses, the bosses of officialdom—they are being lashed from the temple of power by the knout of public scorn. The rise and fall of Goo-gooism in Los Angeles marks a futile attempt of a coterie of demagogues and visionaries to establish a political pharisaism with the old slogan of "I am holier than thou."

Perhaps it was their very effrontery that gave them such a measure of success in the start. When they went out into the highways and byways seven years ago crying that California was misruled by politicians, and that Los Angeles was robbed—the average citizen, credulous in his prosperity, was inclined to take them at their word.

When a politician from San Francisco came with a tragic pose and a deep bass voice, starting his invocations with "Oh, ye of California!" they told each other the one who said "ye" in place of "you" must surely be a prophet. California WAS misruled prior to 1910. There was a general demand for a new deal, alike in State and county government. The Times had been appealing to the plain people to take the reins of government in their own hands, to drive out the politicians and substitute efficiency for boss rule. But what really occurred was a change in bosses in place of a riddance of them.

Apostles of reform sprang up, like mushrooms over night. There were civic leagues, good government leagues, municipal leagues and direct legislation leagues. The same coterie of professional reformers organized them all, and the seven years of plenty, seven years of feasting for the "Goo-goo" politicians began. One of the original "Goo-goos" was Richard H. Norton, the fallen Supervisor. The first rally was back of "Uncle George" Alexander. He was the political Moses to lead the taxpayers out of the bondage of the wicked corporations. Guy Eddie was the anointed Aaron.

But everything must be done in the name of "good government." They must never fail to impress upon the public that the "system" was waiting just round the corner, like the wolf in "Little Red Riding Hood," to catch the unwary taxpayer who should venture forth without at least one "Goo-goo" for escort. How that melodrama of the wicked "system" and the chivalrous "Goo-goo" was overplayed! As long as the "Goo-goos" could make the taxpayers believe that felonious corporations were stalking about in the dark, just that long the reign of hypocrisy and cant was secure.

The 1910 election resulted in a great victory for the "Goo-goos." They had gained control of the city and county government and they were intrusted with the Southern California patronage of the State machine. Then the "cleaning-out" process began. Practically every city and county office was declared vacant; the incumbents, irrespective of efficiency and years of service, were kicked out as part of the old "system." Never before in California did so small a coterie have so many places to fill.

Soon a triumvirate, composed of a newspaper boss, a political boss, and a financial boss, was in supreme control. They vised all appointments and supervised the expenditure of $20,000,000 annually of city and county funds. Their control extended even to the civil service commissions; no place was so high as to be above them; so low as to be beneath their notice. Those were the days when the Nortons, the Lissners, the Hayneses and the Eddies flourished. The best of those who had been in politics before the parting of the ways retired. They had fathomed the hypocrisy of the pretended reformers and held that the post of honor would henceforth be in private life. But the professional politicians under the old Southern Pacific regime all rushed to pay their respects to the new bosses. Henry Lyons became a "Goo-goo" leader. All were converts to the doctrine, "I am holier than thou."

These renegades were welcomed with open arms. They were trained to sing the new songs and told that, so long as they delivered, the past would be forgotten and no unpleasant questions concerning the present would be asked. One of the first acts of the new triumvirate was to secure the adoption of amendments to the city and county charters, which were proposed under the name of reform, but which in reality serve to perpetuate the rule of the party in power. The present city charter and the commission form of government for Los Angeles county are products of their secret manipulations.

Taxes began to climb. Three men did the work that one man had performed before. Property assessments were increased to meet the increased cost of city and county government. During the seven years of "Goo-goo" misrule the cost of city and county government increased at an average rate of $1,500,000 a year. Juggling with the assessment rolls made this increase possible. The tax rate was no higher than formerly; but the assessed value of most of the property assessed was doubled in seven years. When citizens protested the newspapers controlled by the triumvirate asserted that the protest was engineered by the "system," which was trying to get back into power.

Civic luncheons were held at which speakers warned the taxpayers to "beware of the system." These speeches were reported in flaring headlines, accompanied by cartoons showing the common people in the grasp of the wicked trusts. But the pickings became so valuable that the members of the triumvirate began quarreling among themselves. The newspaper boss would brook no rival; the political boss became obsessed with visions of a United States Senatorship, and the financial boss became surly because too many figured in the split on the profits. The bloom was fading from the "Goo-goo" peach. Scores who joined the "Goo-goos" in good faith had come to find that they were used as a medium to exploit the taxpayers for the benefit of a small coterie of demagogues and hypocrites. The "I-am-holier-than-thou" harmony was marred by serious discords.

Then came the supreme attempt of the "Goo-goo" bosses to fasten their reign irrevocably on the public. They figured that they were strong enough to put across their notorious no-party bill, which was nothing less than a bill which penalized all organized opposition to the machine in power. They played for high stakes, but the public was beginning to get wary. In kneeling before the "Goo-goo" bosses it had discovered the feet of clay. A revolt of the plain people followed and they administered to the "Goo-goos" a crushing defeat. That was the beginning of the end of "Goo-gooism" in Southern California. At the next municipal election a citizen who did not bear the "Goo-goo" brand was elected Mayor. The newspaper boss and the political boss began to wash their soiled linen in public. The political boss secured control of a publication in which to reply to the attacks of his former associate. The public began to read what each had to say about the other, and believed them both.

Meanwhile, the pinch of high taxes was beginning to be felt. While "Goo-goo" bosses were quarreling the slaves began to grow restive under their chains. The newspaper boss could no longer reward or punish; his office became as deserted as the circus tent after the lights go out. On top of this came a revelation in court of padded circulation statements and rebates to advertisers. The boss whose persistent attitude had been "I am holier than thou" found his holy methods fully exposed in court actions.

Exposures followed hard and fast. The "Goo-goo" Supervisors are being forced to stand trial in the Superior Court for malfeasance in office. One of the most rabid of them has already been convicted and deprived of his seat. Trials of the others are under way.

Cries are still uttered about the "system." The culprits are trying to pose as martyrs, but credence is no longer given to their utterances. Their hypocrisy has been fully exposed. The taxpayers are getting their revenge. The old leaders of the "Goo-goos" find it as difficult to keep in politics as to keep out of jail. Prospective candidates who are figuring on next year's elections are vying with one another in repudiating the "Goo-goo" bosses and the things for which they stand. Direct legislation has ceased to be attractive. Municipal ownership has lots its charm. There is a concerted movement towards the old ideals of honesty, efficiency and economy. He who shouts "I am holier than thou" is told that he is entirely too immaculate to mix in politics. The taxpayers are now interested in those whose performances are equal to their promises. The return to sound thinking has sounded the requiem of the "Goo-goo" in Los Angeles politics.

Walking the Plank.

THE "UMSTURZ" IN GERMANY.
"Umsturz" means a "turnover," an "uproar," a "revolution," a "revolt," a "mutiny." The Kaiser has one on his hands just now. The most spectacular manifestation of it was the mutiny in the German fleet in the Kiel Harbor when and where, among other things, the sailors threw a captain overboard and caused his death by drowning. But a still more serious aspect of the munity is the disclosure that at least three members of the Reichstag are involved. They are "Independent Socialists," whatever that means—as if all Socialists were not independent of all law and order and decency. Just how many more members of the Reichstag may be involved in the munity, or ought to be involved in it, the dispatches do not make clear. But this much is true: the vaccination has taken and the virus has spread and is spreading. Where it will end, no one can tell. If successful, the munity should end in the dethronement of the Kaiser and the establishment of a democracy in Germany. God speed the deed—by bloodless and pacific means if possible, but by hammer blows and force if need be. For the establishment of a democracy in Germany means the end of the war, and Kaiserism is not worth the price the Germans pay for it or the price the world has been made to pay by the infamy of it.
The so-called loyalty of the German people to the Kaiser at best is more fictitious than real. Travelers returned from Germany, long before the war started, brought with them reports that the revolutionary spirit of Germany was aflame with zeal. The German people owe their Kaiser nothing; he, however, owes them everything and pays them nothing. Like German loyalty to the Kaiser, German efficiency also is more a fiction than a reality. It is true that the Germans make better analine dyes than other peoples and they are clever philologists; but their victories at arms, up to date, are all negations. The efficiency of their U-boats is all a boast and the efficiency of their navy is yet unproved. That the Germans are efficient revolutionists was pretty well established so long ago as 1848; and that the spirit of rebellion is very much alive in Germany today the events in the Reichstag and the harbor of Kiel sufficiently attest.

GAS—A BAD MOVE.
In passing the ordinance making it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to supply any gas other than natural gas to the people of Los Angeles the majority of the Council allowed itself to be misled into taking action which, if persisted in, will prove extremely hurtful to the city and harmful to its reputation.
If the intent of the ordinance is carried out a number of industries whose peaceful continuance is of vital importance to the city will have to close down, for a time at least, and one will have to shut down altogether. In addition a large number of other industries will be inconvenienced.
At present a majority of Los Angeles consumers are supplied with manufactured gas, while the natural gas is used by industries in the city and suburbs such as Vernon, Torrance, Tropico and other places. Most of these industries were induced to come here through the representations of the Chamber of Commerce and because of the assurance that there is cheap natural gas to be had.
The natural gas is brought here, all right, but if the new ordinance is not repealed or otherwise rendered ineffective there will be none for the industries. The manufactories will only be able to get the natural gas after the domestic consumers have been supplied. With the present pipe-line facilities there will be no excess gas for them.
Before the Council passed the ordinance members of the Industrial Gas Consumers' Association appeared before it and thoroughly explained the unpleasant and costly consequences which it would entail. However, the majority of the Council, seemingly urged on by some outside influence, insisted on adopting the ordinance, and the Mayor, mislaying for the moment his usual sagacity, approved it.
Fortunately the ordinance does not become effective for sixty days, so there is still time to impress the people with the unfortunate results which cannot fail to accompany its enforcement. Just now it is only necessary to mention one of these, and that is that twenty-eight important industries will have to shut down until they can get some other form of fuel, which, under present conditions, it will be difficult to find and also will cost the companies more. Moreover one of these industries, located at Torrance, will have to close down altogether because it can only use natural gas for fuel. This company brought 250 families to Los Angeles from the East. The heads of these families are highly skilled, many of them making $20 a day. All these families will have to go elsewhere if this ordinance is carried out.

BACKING UNCLE SAM.

In times of peace my robes are rent o'er every statesman's blunder;
I clamor that our government, for boneheads, is a wonder. O'er Congress then I rip and snort, to wrathful frenzy driven; it is a harmless indoor sport to which most men are given. It doesn't jar our Uncle Sam, this pessimistic harping; he doesn't care a tinker's jam for criticism carping. In times of peace such talk will go, no voter it disgraces; it serves to let our statesmen know that we are keeping cases. But when our country's in a fight, and loyalty's essential, how good men hate the grouchy wight, with dirges penitential! Now, I am backing Uncle Sam, though all the grouches hoot me; and I am silent as a clam if things don't chance to suit me. I still am talking much, by jinks, but talking circumspectly; my Uncle Sam is doing things, and doing them correctly. My Uncle Sam is wise and great and all he does is proper; and I detest the sort of skate who's a disloyal yawper.

Suspicious Little Girl.
A little girl went to the grocer's, says the New York Tribune, and asked the salesman if he had any fresh eggs.
"Yes," answered the man. "How many do you want?"
She was viewing the eggs critically.
"Please, sir," said she, "these eggs are not fresh."
"Certainly they are fresh, little girl."
"No, they aren't," she persisted. "I heard my papa tell my mamma there's a corner on eggs, and these are all smooth."

HIGH COST A FALLACY.

The Viewpoint of a Farmer Philosopher.

BY WILLIAM M. BRISTOL.

Never since the Civil War—and perhaps not even then—has there been such a hubbub about the high cost of living as that which prevails today.
I rise to say that the apparent high cost of living today is apparent only. It appears high because it is measured in terms of gold, a measure of value whose own value fluctuates, like that of every other valuable commodity, according to supply and demand. If measured in terms of labor the cost of living is lower today than ever before in the history of the world, because machinery is today doing a large and increasing part of the drudgery formerly performed by man.
A surprising amount of mystery surrounds the question of money and its relation to the problem of living. In the newest edition of Webster's dictionary one definition of money is as follows:
"In a comprehensive sense, anything customarily used as a medium of exchange and measure of value, as sheep, wampum, copper rings, quills of salt or of gold dust, shovel blades, etc."
The mystery concerning money vanishes instantly if we go back in imagination to the cradle of the race and consider how commerce must have originated. One cave-man, perhaps, was long on fresh meat and his neighbor had a surplus of iron for spear-points. The exchange of surplus meat for surplus iron was the beginning of commerce; and commerce today is virtually and simply the exchange of one valuable commodity for some other valuable commodity, or for a promise to deliver that other commodity.
During the first Bryan campaigns, when the blind Nebraskan led multitudes of other blind people into the free-silver ditch, some friends of the gold standard protested against the classification of gold as a commodity. This protest was and still is illogical; for gold is a commodity, and an exceedingly useful one. It is used and consumed in the arts and manufactures in a thousand ways, approximately two-thirds of the current production being withdrawn from the world's supply for use in ways other than as a medium of exchange. It is valuable as money simply and solely because it is useful in other ways, although it is but fair to say that its convenience for use as a circulating medium adds somewhat to its value. It is indestructible, easily divisible, exceedingly compact—and the supply, actual as well as potential, is limited. Because it is the most convenient commodity to pass from hand to hand, and to store, it has come, arbitrarily, to be the world's popular circulating medium and hence its measure of value; but its value is not arbitrary, as was implied by the Nebraskan in his sonorous metaphor concerning the "crown of thorns." If common clay or some other equally abundant substance could be made to take the place of gold in the industrial arts the value of gold as money would at once drop to the value of the clay. In other words, a pound of gold would then buy no more flour or bacon than would a pound of clay.
The present cost of living is apparently high simply because within the past twenty years the world's output of gold has increased enormously. Improved machinery and methods of extracting it from low-grade ore are responsible for this increase. When a man comes down from Alaska or up from the Rand with his pockets bulging with dust the world immediately knows it and says to him, "You can afford to give more of it in exchange for the flour and bacon you want." Somehow or other the world quickly learns when any certain commodity is abundant, whether it be eggs or oranges, silver or gold; and those who are long on these things quite naturally yield to the demand that they give up more of them in exchange for the products of their fellows.
For some time after this abnormal increase in the gold product began the world did not seem to realize it as it realizes an increase in a perishable product. And, furthermore, the world did not realize that the increase in the gold product was to be permanent. The war has been largely responsible for disclosing the fact of an enormous gold supply; and the forced draft upon it has added publicity to the disclosure. Every man with produce or labor to sell has seen the flood and has demanded more of it in exchange for his own product. The effect of the disclosure has been like unto the commotion that resulted when the information went out to the boys of an Indian village that a certain grocer's molasses hogshead had bursted in the alley back of his store.
It is unfortunate that the world must use a fluctuating measure of value in its commerce. If a certain amount of manual labor could be used as the yardstick instead of the gold dollar the ebb and flow of prices would be lessened somewhat; but this, however, would not prevent the upward and downward movement in value of things other than the yardstick itself.
Sixty years ago the American people worked harder by half than they do today and had less than half as many comforts, conveniences and luxuries. The alleged hard times of today are apparent only and not actual. Many of the inequalities due to the increased gold supply have been or will be adjusted by increases in wages and salaries. Wages and salaries are going up. If no further increase in the annual gold product occurs the remaining inequalities in values and prices of labor and other commodities will automatically adjust themselves and the lengthened gold yardstick will continue in use. In the meantime it should become apparent to all that the task of living is less than it was in the days of our forefathers—and the hubbub should cease.

With the proposed increase in price of ice we shall have to return to the old-fashioned refrigerator well, in which to keep the butter, provided one has.

The German Crown Princess has given birth to a daughter. This has come of the dictum of the Kaiser that nothing but sons be born in the kingdom.

Why not explain to the Kaiser that we are at war with Germany? Senator Robert Marion La Follette might be able to make it clear.

The Congressional Record has been suspended until the first day in December. Then the Kaiser will have to find another excuse for his encouragement.

There are still a few persons in this town who seem to be short of time to stand around the corner and listen to the ball game being made from the press box. They indulge in criticism of the umpire which the war is being waged.

High prices and the high cost of living are said to delay the day when peace will be declared. In the country in general it remains to be seen how much longer baseball fans will take to the game.

The man who figured out that the cost of living would be reduced if Ann would be a widow has not yet called at the office of the Times with his figures. The excess profits tax, however, appears to be entirely responsible for the local tax experts.

In England a farmer who has several acres of cabbages will be had free for the asking. The spirit like this that is behind the war. It is most heartening to see the cabbages destroying the cabbage. The price is not satisfactory.

It is a good thing that the weather takes a hand in the matter of the coal before the country is in the grip of cold weather in the fall. Many people have been necessarily without coal or parlor furniture to burn.

It seems to be quite certain that the indictment of Arbuckle will have been concluded in the courts of New York primary election before one persons having been convicted of the charge of fraud. In the election mosher has been fined to Indiana.

The Maryland legislature has passed a compulsory work law. How it works will be watched with much interest. It is to be hoped that we are led to believe that the young man of leisure will be compelled to work for his dividends, his board and his dad. The best he can do is going to be mighty poor.

The war will soon be responsible for affecting all business and in whatever line of manufacturing a new article must weigh developments in order to get a line on what is coming so that he may govern his own personal business judgment. The war is changing by day getting its grip on the nation and its industry and agriculture can only do what it can be compelled to do.

What about the baseball fan who a short time ago to allow the use of denatured alcohol in the manufacture of beer? The stuff was to be shipped from every farm, and the farmer would make up the loss from his rotting corn, potatoes, peaches, etc. Nothing has been done about it. The stuff is selling at $2 a gallon, while previous to the place it was to take effect it was to take, and did, from 20 cents a gallon. The latest other attack on the high cost of living is the monopoly fiunk suit. It is to be hoped that is about the only thing in this country which has not yet felt the effect of its ability to extort profits from the public. Time will tell.

The stuff was to be made from every farm, and the product would make up an unlimited supply from his rotting cornstalks, peaches, etc. Nothing has been done about it. Ralph Frary's far-reaching voice did not pierce the solitude yesterday. Ralph got out and umpired the bases, which leaves nothing to be said in a loud voice. Bill Guthrie stood behind the plate and grunted out balls and strikes. When speaking Bill makes a noise like a submarine doing eight knots an hour under the water. Only when the bubbles rise to the surface are you sure that he is saying something. His voice is deep, like his thoughts. Mr. Guthrie is a first-class umpire, but that is only a side line with him. By profession he is a steam fitter and a scientist. Armed with a monkey wrench and other delicate instruments, Bill early each winter crawls into a steam engine. Making extensive explorations, he emerges the following spring with much information of value to the scientific world. Last winter, while treating the appendix of a sick locomotive, he got to thinking what a boon to humanity a quick-firing steam boiler suitable for automobiles would be, in view of the high cost of gasoline. Instead of passing his evenings in riotous living he has since worked on the idea, and claims to have perfected a boiler which will generate 100 pounds of steam in one minute. With 100 pounds of steam an automobile can easily do forty miles an hour on the surface. The boiler also has a maximum capacity of 400 pounds without blowing up. Beyond that point the driver should not hold his foot on the safety valve. While father is steering, mother and the children can shovel in the coal. A limited amount of coal can be carried on the back seat. However, by hooking on a trailer it would be possible to carry a couple of tons and in that way provide against emergencies. With 600 pounds of steam under the lid, it would be possible to discard the weak-lunged horn and equip one's auto with a steamboat whistle which could be heard for twenty miles on a foggy night, thereby avoiding collisions. By placing cheap steam under the seat of all auto owners Mr. Guthrie will go far toward solving a number of problems, one of which is keeping warm on a cold night. The score:

There are always a number of high school stars among the Trojan babes.

BIG STICK WINS AGAINST CADETS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Oct. 11.—"Spot" McMurdo's big stick won the baseball game today for the All Stars, the cadets from the naval training station losing the game by a score of 3 to 2. The cadets put Dimmick, formerly of the University of California, in the box, and he did very well and might have won the game for the sailors at that if McMurdo had not hit a homer in the third.

LEXINGTON CLOSING.

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 11.—Lexington's Grand Circuit meeting came to a close today with a card of four purse races, three of which were won in straight heats. Measles, the winner of the 2:10 trot, became the first and only triple winner of the meeting. Mary Rosalind Parr became a double winner when she won the 2:10 pace, the first event on the card, this giving her driver, Charles A. Valentine, the credit of winning five races, the greatest number won by any driver during the meeting. Gentry C also joined the ranks of double race winners in the 2:12 trot, which he won handily, taking a new record of 2:07¼ in the final heat. The summary:

SANTA BARBARA IS AFTER THE LIONS.

Acting upon this year's experience of Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner Henry Abels with mountain lions in the Sisquoc game refuge, the Santa Barbara Supervisors have increased the county bounty from $5 to $20 upon lions, additional to the State rewards of $30 and $20 for females and males, long paid by the Fish and Game Commission.

Hunters and stockmen everywhere join in condemning lions, and hoping Santa Barbara's action is made general, as no one seems to find any valid excuse for lions living. They kill a deer apiece a week and young stock galore. In some places they have damaged deer more than hunters and seem to thrive upon game protection.

VETERANS PREPARE FOR CROSS-COUNTRY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 11.—The 1917 cross-country season has started off with a bang. Five of last year's stars are out in addition to a great deal of promising new material. Among the veterans who have donned spikes are Capt. Art Wilson, M. F. Samis, P. H. McPherson, C. A. Teitsworth, who placed against California last year; F. L. Chapman, A. G. Westwick and F. K. Colglazier, holder of the freshman mile record. The annual cross-country with California will probably be held on Thanksgiving Day.

TO OPEN STADIUM WITH FOOTBALL.

Coach "Rhino" Rheinschild of the Oxy Tigers is whipping his varsity into the best of early-season shape for the go with Throop, on Patterson field, tomorrow afternoon. Two years ago Throop held Occidental to a 7-0 score, and the Tigers have never recovered from the bitterness of that near defeat. Throop looks good this season, and there should be plenty of interesting moments in tomorrow's fracas. This game will mark the official opening of Occidental's new athletic field, known as Patterson Stadium.

"Vengeance is Mine."

KAUFF, HITLESS TO DATE, MAKES TWO HOME RUNS.

Schupp Fools Chicago Men, but Faber Falls by Wayside.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Swinging their war clubs like the cavemen of old, the New York Nationals battered their way to victory over the Chicago Americans here today by a score of 5 to 0. As a result of the second defeat of the White Sox in two days, the Giants are traveling westward tonight on even terms with their rivals in the struggle for world series victory.

The outcome of the battle for premier baseball honors is as much in doubt as before the series began in Chicago last Saturday. Each team now has won two contests, and the indications point to a full seven-game drive before either club will admit the supremacy of the other.

The victory of the Giants in the fourth game was the most impressive of the struggle to date, for the National League color-bearers excelled both in pitching and with the bat. While the Chicago combination threatened several times, they never got a runner beyond third base, and the American League team left for the shores of Lake Michigan without crossing the Polo Grounds home plate in eighteen innings.

Two new diamond heroes leaped to pedestals of fame in the clash today, for Ferdinand Schupp of Louisville turned the White Sox batters back without a run, and Benny Kauff of Middleport, O., led the batting massacre with two home runs.

REDEEMS HIMSELF.

The youthful left-hander fully redeemed himself for the vicious sally of the Chicago club in the second game on their home grounds, when the Comiskey Park batters drove him from the mound early in the contest, while Kauff, after thirteen hitless trips to the plate, finally found his batting eye and broke through Pitcher Faber for a circuit drive which paved the way for the Giants' onslaught, that later was to demoralize the White Sox. The effectiveness of Schupp's hurling and Kauff's batting was sufficient to defeat the American League champions, but the thrill of victory was contagious, and their team-mates were only a stride behind them in the rush through the White Sox trenches.

Only twice in the long history of world series baseball has Kauff's feat of two home runs in one game been duplicated. Before the former batting leader of the Federal League made his two circuit drives the honor was divided between Harry Hooper of the Boston Americans in 1915 and Outfielder Dougherty of the same club in 1911. Hooper hammered two home runs into the bleachers in the fifth game of the world series of two years ago against the Philadelphia Nationals, while in the ancient days of the post-season play, Dougherty established the record with his twin drives against the Pittsburgh Nationals of 1903.

ANOTHER SHUT-OUT.

In shutting out the Sox, following a similar feat by Rube Benton yesterday, Schupp also equaled for the Giants' team, as a whole, a double shut-out which has been scored few times since the beginning of the present century. In 1908 the Chicago Nationals whitewashed the Detroit Americans twice in succession, and in 1903, the Giants of those days shut out the Philadelphia Athletics four games out of five, while the only victory of the Mackmen was also a shut-out by the Indian pitcher, Chief Bender. Christy Mathewson, now manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, and "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity were the New York twirlers who engineered the quadruple whitewash of the Athletics.

For three sessions today's game was a pitchers' battle between Faber and Schupp, with little, if any, advantage on either side. Kauff was the third man to face Faber in the Giants' half of the fourth. Burns and Herzog having failed to make first base. With two out and his record of not a hit in the series in thirteen times at bat, a by-word among the fans, Kauff was desperate. With a ball and a strike called against him, he saw a perfect "groove" ball coming up from Faber's hand, and he flung the full weight of his body into the sweep of the bat. There was a terrific crack and the ball flew like a bullet over second base and far onward into center field.

Felsch, the man who made the tremendous circuit drive off Sallee in the opening game of the series, sighted the sailing sphere and sprinted for the center-field bleacher fence. The ball passed over his head and fell among the folds of a canvas sign, which, before it was dropped at the beginning of the game, announced:

FUMBLES BALL.

"The Giants have bought their Liberty Bonds! Have you?"

Felsch in his eagerness to hold Kauff at third fumbled the ball as he tried to pick it up and the Giant runner was crossing the plate as the sphere was finally returned to the infield. Both Kauff's team-mates and the fans gave him an enthusiastic greeting as he sped toward the Giants' dugout.

The circuit appeared to take something of Faber's confidence and, although Zimmerman was retired on an infield out, the White Sox twirler faltered as soon as he faced the Nationals in the succeeding session. Fletcher opened with a single to center. Manager McGraw crossed the Sox by switching from his well-known-hit-and-run system to bunting. Robertson and Holke both laid down perfect bunts and by fast sprinting the bases were filled. Rariden's hopper to Faber resulted in a double play, Fletcher being forced at the plate and Schalk's quick throw to Gandil getting Rariden by a step.

Schupp's single to center sent Robertson across the plate, but Holke was caught by Felch's rapid return of the ball as he tried to slide in a stride behind Robertson.

In the "lucky seventh" the Giants scored again. Fletcher singled off McMullin's glove and took third when Faber's "spit ball" flew wild and Schalk had to chase it to the grand stand wall. Robertson went out, Faber to Gandil, and then the White Sox pitcher hit Holke, sending him to first. For the first time in the game the fans began to root steadily for an effort to rattle Faber. McGraw gave the signal for the hit-and-run play and as Rariden went out, Collins to Gandil, Fletcher scored. With Holke on second, Schupp was retired, Weaver to first.

FABER QUITS.

Faber retired at the end of the seventh inning and Danforth took up the hurling for the White Sox when the Giants went to bat in the eighth. Burns fanned, but Capt. Herzog slashed a single to center and for the second time in the game Kauff found a ball to his liking and sent it sailing away for another home run. This time he hooked the ball toward right field and the sphere dropped leisurely into the grand stand back of first base, while Kauff trotted around the bases, preceded by Herzog for the final runs of the contest. Zimmerman tried to duplicate Kauff's hit, but the best he could do was to triple to center and he was caught at the

"In baseball take nothing for granted," was the guiding motto of the late Harry Pulliam, former president of the National League.

All of which will provide food for profitable reflection for the superoptimists who, after the White Sox had taken two straight, regarded the grand pennalen as good as cinched.

"It's all over but the shouting," was the attitude of the Chicago players and their adherents when they embarked for New York last Sunday night. That didn't sound good to those familiar with the vagaries of baseball. It made a noise too much like overconfidence.

Although the series stands 10-10, the Giants appear to have the edge. The team which comes from behind and evens up matters has a psychological advantage. It jars the confidence of the other club; while a team which believes itself hopelessly beaten and then suddenly finds it can win is hard to stop. The most dangerous fighter in the world is one who has been put down for the count of nine, stalls through the round and then finds later that the other fellow is weakening. To finish an opponent, but be unable to finish him, and have him come back stronger, takes a lot of sap and confidence out of a boxer. And the same law of mental operation holds good on the baseball field or on the gridiron.

Today the Giants are gushing with confidence. The White Sox are by no means sure of themselves. Rowland's men's chief hope is that these two beatings will bring them to their senses. If the real inside story of the series is ever written it will probably show that the White Sox were too cocksure of themselves after those two victories. By this we do not mean to convey the impression that the men broke training rules during their two days' layoff, but athletes who are overconfident simply do not keep on fighting edge. This is a mental rather than physical condition.

COMPLETE CHANGE.

The situation has undergone a complete change since last Sunday night. New York had been whipped in the first game and routed in the second. McGraw had used five pitchers and his staff seemed hopelessly demoralized. It was generally recognized that the Giants had not played up to form in Sunday's game, but even passably good big-league form. But they were on the run. Then came that extra day of grace due to rain. But for that, Chicago might have made a clean sweep of the series, as the morale of the Giants was down about zero. That extra day, passed among their own people, gave McGraw's men time to think it over. Kind friends began pumping the old confidence into them and they got to thinking that they might not be so slow after all.

Result—it was an entirely different club which faced Chicago on Wednesday. The men had steadied. We have seen badly beaten football teams come back like that after an intermission and play the opposing eleven off its feet.

Nobody was sure that Rube Benton would be started. He was regarded as a long shot at best. When he stepped in and stopped the Sox with magnificent hurling it probably jarred them. What jarred them worse was that he turned the trick against Eddie Cicotte, their best pitching bet. It's a safe conjecture that right then overconfidence was succeeded by lack of it. Then to have Faber beaten, and defeated by Schupp, whom they had routed once, must have reduced the faith of Rowland's men in themselves to the freezing point.

Their two headliners have been beaten. Rowland must now fall back on Russell or Williams or some other second-stringer, all of whom are unknown quantities in a world series. Sallee is ready to start, to be followed by Benton. Perritt and Tesreau, either one of whom is a possible winner, and absolutely fresh. In short, the Sox appear to be in as bad a way as the Giants were last Sunday night, and rain may not intervene in their behalf.

BANKS ON SOUTHPAWS.

McGraw, although relying mainly on the hit-and-run, and inclined to fight it out on the original plan of campaign, like Gen. Grant, although he does not have all summer to do it in, seemed inclined to vary his attack slightly more in the last two games. A sacrifice figured in the second run Wednesday and he did not hold aloof from the same play yesterday. Also he varied his assault with two busts down the third-base line in the fifth. The first of these caught Fred McMullin flat-footed and unfit for the army. The second bunt was a more difficult play for Fred, as there were runners on first and second. Under those condition a third-seeker is not sure whether to come in on the ball or cover the base and leave the fielding to the pitcher. It is probable that he and Faber got crossed up.

With a fielding pitcher of the Mordecai Brown type there would have been no trouble. Brown beat Detroit largely through his ability to gather in bunts and nail Cobb and other fast men going from second to third. The Cubs unquestionably had finer balance than either of the teams engaged in the present series. In their palmy days they never balled things up.

An unprecedented feature of the series is the fact that McGraw has started each of the four games with a southpaw. You've got to hand it to him for breaking one of the established laws of baseball and getting away with it. He refused longer to be governed by a theory and in attempting something new found that it was practical. John J. figured that the pitchers who brought home the goods in the regular season were the logical ones to try it in the play-off. He appears to be a man with the courage of his convictions.

ANGELENOS SAD.

Few world series have developed a higher class of pitching. Cicotte and Faber both hurled good ball in their first start, while the Sox have been blanked for twenty-two innings, which is eloquent of the finest kind of flinging. Superlative control has been a feature. When Schupp walked Eddie Collins in the ninth yesterday it was the first pass by either team in seventeen innings. Faber, although not walking anybody, lost the fine edge off his control in the sixth, as shown by a wild pitch and a hit batsman.

He never seemed quite the same after Benny Kauff lifted himself out of the comics with his first home run. When Benny repeated with another in eighth he tied Frank Baker's mark of two in a single game in 1911, which in turn duplicated the mark set up by Pat Dougherty of the Boston Americans against Pittsburgh in 1903.

The fourth seems to have succeeded the seventh as the "fatal" frame. Every game so far has been decided in that round. Felsch's home run, which was destined to win the first, came off in the fourth. The following day the White Sox made their winning rally in the same inning. Wednesday the Giants won in the fourth and yesterday Kauff's homer in that round represented the winning ace.

It was a chastened and saddened crowd that departed from the bulletin boards in Los Angeles when the final returns were received. One might have though that it was this city's own funeral.

TELLS HOW, COMISKEY WON ON OLD SAND LOTS.

DENVER, Oct. 12.—The outcome of the present world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants means a great deal to James T. Hart, elevator pilot in the old Federal Building in Denver. It is not a question of winning or losing a small fortune on the issue. It is all a matter of sentiment. For James T. Hart used to play corner-lot baseball with Charles Comiskey, present owner of the White Sox. And he says he's praying they will win the series.

That was many years ago. It was in Chicago shortly before the great fire of October 9, 1871. Hart and Comiskey had a team of corner lotters, youths ranging in age from 9 to 12 years. Of course, Comiskey was the leader and displayed the same ability which has placed him among the foremost fighters of the national game today.

"Comiskey was a born leader," said Hart today. "So, of course, he was captain of our team. He played all positions, and when any of us were sick, or our parents kept us at home to do the chores, Charley was ready at a moment's notice to serve as utility man.

SELDOM LOST.

"Those were the days when we had to take off our shoes in order to run fast. We had an awful time getting balls and bats. We sold junk and stuff of that sort to get money for balls and our bats consisted mainly of those cast off after having been broken by regular ball players. We would glue and screw the broken bats together and use them as long as possible.

"When our team played we would compete on the proposition that the losing team would forfeit a bat. We seldom lost a bat, but when we did or were threatened with a loss, Comiskey would start a row with the umpire or opposing players and break up the game before we lost our bats. He was the foxiest kid in Chicago in those days. We played on the old Garden City grounds on the West Side.

"We once had an application to join our club from a Swedish kid who lived on Central avenue. His father was a carpenter and wood turner. This kid could not play very well and Comiskey said he didn't want him on the team. But Commy had a brilliant idea. He told "Swede" if his father would turn the club a bat he might let him on the team, so "Swede's" father turned out a bat of black walnut. It was so heavy that none of us could lift it as high as the head.

THE STAKE BAT.

"But it served the purpose of being used as a stake bat. We would put it up as a forfeit. We never lost that bat. Every time the game went against us Charlie would start a row and then have one of us kids steal the bat from the umpire and run up an alley with it.

"Comiskey seldom went to school more than two months a year. He was always out on the baseball grounds figuring out plays. The only reason he went to school at all was the bad weather around Chicago. I haven't seen him since those days, but I know he is the same lovable fellow he was in the days when he and I and Yank Marsh, Billy O'Grady, Buck and Jimmy Cennora, "Swede" and the rest used to play on the corner lots.

"He is a millionaire now and you can bet he has achieved success through his powers as a leader. Was he a great kid? You yodeled a mouthful that chirp, mate."

BIG SHOW SIDELIGHTS.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 11.—The world's series will require another start, and predictions are that even the rain will not stop baseball. The heads and heads and the National Commission, and administration, but, bough, on the sidelines who had their last bet on in the possible today.

Danforth was murdered in cold blood. There is no sentiment over that. He came up against Benny Kauff, hankering for a home run. The pretzels swinger put the ball into the stand, so there is no alibi there. Still it made no difference.

Eddie Collins was the recipient of the only pass during the game in the ninth, and Eddie never saw it, as Jackson's intent was to steal third, also the only burglary during the battings. Felsch flocked to the rescue and Jackson was the brutal pastime by raising a hand fly to Kauff.

Reformed gilded Cicotte, his ace in the hole Eddie was in a hole all right. It takes an unusual pessimism to stand out in a crowd like the one on the Polo Grounds today.

Many persons have been amazed by the coldblooded nerve shown by the two teams while on the ball field. Never ever could Mcmillin immediately look over and throttle McMullin. Perhaps also that Kid Gleason would tenderly step out of Cicotte and throw him over the roof of the stands.

Kauff's home run was not only his real hit of the series but the first hit of Faber in the game. It was a powerful smash. Felsch, as fast as he went back on it, was unable to relay the ball in time to head off the runner from getting to the plate. Kauff will get a gilt Liberty Bond besides other things, for his hit.

It is a novelty for the New York fans to see real open inside the grounds. For several years the Polo Grounds management has been trying to have their grass, improved policy, but only recently had been successful in get foot inside the grounds under the pass at the gate.

Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, was at the game, but would hardly turn his head Friday. World series are a hoodoo for Garry. Last year at Boston he slipped in a bathtub and cracked two ribs.

Up-to-date Harry Frazee is in receipt of a Liberty bond, a diamond stick pin, watch and chain, suit of clothes, a hat, a pair of shoes, ten shares of airship stock and the best suite of rooms at the Ansonia, and all because of that home run in Chicago. After the series is over he is going home to fish through the ice.

Benny Kauff profited to the extent of two Liberty Bonds of $50 each when he cracked his two home runs. He also received $50 for hitting the ball over the fence in Boston Thursday, so it was a profitable day for Benny and his dad.

There was a number of years on Hofer's desire to bat and strike out in both sides. Burns was defeated to leave the vitality of the plate when he fanned in the eighth.

Benny Kauffman, who started the Illinois Athletic Club, was among those present. It was a Chicago party at 7 o'clock. There were three Chicago fans in the party. They were quite that it would liven up on the way. The Reds opened a keg and all of the Illinois Athletic Club in the baggage train.

A special car had comfortable capacity to permit the affair to move from a seat to the other bar. There were several other fighters who tried to have it.

Harry Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, had an exciting time at the Friars' Club at an early hour this morning. He got into a dispute with a waiter who refused to let that fighty to look the air from the outside.

The waiters were stood. They said the Indians couldn't be kept down that way and offered dollar each for a ballad, and there is no point in that.

Standridge's record is unique. He pitched to five batters, three of them left on and two fanned. This was one of the spots to hit and was caught trying to steal home.

There was a gambling of loath among the players who had the good fortune to have into the present world's series. Some of the bets were made even at twenty-five to one. The total amount of the bets is $152,504.50. They expected that the total would be closer to $150,000.

President Johnson of the American League discontinued his efforts of getting Ruppert for a military uniform today. He is trying to think of Ruppert last year at Boston and though with patriotism the weather reports from the Flanders front has had a discouraging effect on him. Ban wants to fight if right, but he thinks that the battle should be continued to the summer, according to his friends.

GRIDIRON HEROES IN CAMP LEWIS SQUAD.

TACOMA, Oct. 11.—Two fourteen-carat football teams will clash here Saturday when the Three Hundred and Sixty-second Infantry, from Camp Lewis, opposes Lone Star Diets and his Washington State eleven in the first big game of the northern gridiron season.

If a collection of veteran warriors ever made a winning team, such will be the case Saturday. The soldier squad is now being tuned up by two high lights in Coast football, Lieut.-Col. Jordan, formerly star halfback, captain and the brains of the Multnomah eleven, and Everett May, Northwestern tackle in 1911 and 1912, and All-Northwestern halfback a year later.

Diets will find in the Camp Lewis delegation gridiron heroes from Chicago, Purdue, Notre Dame, Stanford, Texas, California, Oregon Aggies, Utah, Olympic Club, Multnomah Club and Los Angeles Athletic Club. One hundred and ninety-five is the average weight for the military officers.

MANUAL ARTS TO PLAY IN GATE CITY.

A string of "tin lizzies" a mile long will leave Manual Arts tomorrow morning bound for San Bernardino. Their freight will be the well-known Sid Foster and a mob of husky football aspirants determined to take the gridiron measure of San Bernardino High.

After hours of deep deliberation, Foster decided to take the following men on the trip: Redd, Schaad, Hufford, Lindstrom, Blinn, Berkey, Harman, Thomas, Evert, Kiemberger, Barnes, O'Brien, Weifenbuck, Eason, McMullen, Amor Galloway, Leadingham, Johns, Solly Smith, Beasley, Orsatti, McConley, Coles, Ross, Lippman, Rogers, Huff and Schoenie.

PRACTICE CONTEST.

The Occidental Freshies are paired with Pasadena High for a practice contest on the Crown City field tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Both aggregations are reputed to have plenty of class and the affair should be snappy.

TO CANNONADE DUCKS.

Messrs. Dustin Farnum, Bernal Dyas and Cawfield have formed a party to celebrate the opening of duck season on October 16. These gentlemen have decided to do their cannonading in the country north of Bakersfield.

plate when Fletcher missed the ball on an attempted "squeeze play."

During the game Schupp pitched a total of 121 deliveries, of which 35 were strikes, 15 foul strikes, and 40 balls. Eight others were fouled, 18 field outs and 7 clean hits. He fanned 7 batters and allowed but 2 hits in one inning, while the 7 hits registered against him netted 8 bases and 1 base on balls charged against him; this being in the ninth inning, when he eased up in his box work. Faber and Danforth between them pitched to the batters 88 times. Their record included 25 strikes, 15 foul strikes, 20 balls, 1 foul and 1 hit batter, 16 field outs and 10 hits. Faber yielded 7 hits for 10, and Danforth 3 hits for 8 bases.

FIGURES OF GAME.

This was the last game in which the players participate in the game receipts and later on the White Sox and Giants will divide $152,855.65 as their share of admission charges for the first four games. This sum will be awarded 60 per cent to the winning and 40 per cent to the losing team, the amounts being respectively $91,733.15 and $61,155.43.

The attendance today was 27,746 and the receipts $63,742. Of this amount the players received $34,120.62, the clubs $11,473.54 each and the National Commission $6374.26.

While the day was almost perfect for baseball, being clear and mild, the attendance was the poorest of the series to date. There were hundreds of vacant seats in the bleachers and similar spaces in the unreserved grand stand. The assemblage of fans appeared to be more or less apathetic except at critical or exciting moments of the play. While there was plenty of cheering at those times, there was little of the sustained rooting that might reasonably have been expected from so many thousands of baseball enthusiasts, especially when the home team was playing such a slashing game and evening up a series that was thought to be lost when the New York club left Chicago Sunday night with two straight defeats scored against them.

The story of the White Sox's downfall is told in the following official box score:

SID CAVILL GIVES CRAWL STROKE TIPS.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Sid Cavill, the Australian swimmer, who, with his brothers, originated the crawl stroke now so universally used in speed tests, states that the difficulties of the stroke have been very much exagerated and a wrong conception given it by a number of writers who have tried to explain it.

As a matter of fact, to its simplicity is due the speed which can be gotten out of it. There is no extra motion, according to Cavill. Much stress, he says, has been placed on the action of the legs and feet, whereas, these take care of themselves. The power and propelling force lies practically entirely in the arms and the motion of the legs is more of a stabilizer than anything else. They keep the body flat along the surface of the water.

One of the principal tricks of the stroke, which the learner must master, consists in knowing just when to breathe. The position of the body brings the water up to the eyes, the mouth and nose being submerged. A little instruction in regard to this will quickly show the beginner the moments during the stroke when the breath should be exhaled and inhaled.

OXY WILL TACKLE BEARS OCTOBER 20.

Manager Brandsteiner of Occidental completed arrangements with the California Bears yesterday for a game at Berkeley on October 20. The Tigers will leave Thursday evening and will probably be accompanied by a delegation of students. Last year Occidental handed California a neat trimming and the Bears are out for blood this trip.

WANDERS STRANGELY.

Son of Federal Officer Believed to be Affected by Exposure Suffered Some Time Ago.

Russell Bell, son of Deputy United States Marshal J. W. Bell, was found yesterday morning wandering along Vermont avenue, seemingly in a distraught state of mind, after the family had spent five hours trying to locate him. He had left their Fifty-first-street home without notice, and his mother and father were almost crazed on account of his unexplained departure.

Young Bell arrived with his father from San Francisco Monday night, the boy having landed there on the United States transport Logan, from Shanghai and Japanese ports.

He sailed for Shanghai, China, last February, intending to enter the service of the Standard Oil Company as a surveyor. When en route from Nagasaki to Shanghai the steamer on which he was a passenger was wrecked, and the passengers, including Bell, were cast ashore on an island. The exposuure made Bell ill, and he was confined in the American hospital at Shanghai.

GIANTS FAIL TO ENTHUSE ED MAIER.

Ed R. Maier says that if the Giants defeat the White Sox in the present series it will be due to one of the vagaries that frequently feature a short series. Mr. Maier saw the Giants in action while in the East recently.

"Far from playing like a championship team, the Giants looked like a very poor major league club," said he. "On a season's play they would not be in the same class with the White Sox. In a short series you never can tell. Even a Coast League team might defeat the champion of the American or National League on a week's play. Catch a big league club in a batting slump, or with its pitchers going badly, and it doesn't look good enough for class AA company."

SEVEN SQUADS HIT UP STIFF PRACTICE.

Coach Graham Moody of the Hollywood Foothillers put his seven squads through a stiff practice last night in an effort to decide who he will take along to meet Riverside at Riverside Saturday. The largest squad in the history of Hollywood High has turned out this year. Louis Foley, former Lincoln High coach, is assisting Moody with the coaching.

GAME IN SAN DIEGO.

Polytechnic High is slated to meet San Diego High at San Diego tomorrow afternoon. Coach Rickershauser of the Mechanics will take a large squad to the southern city to get a line on the ability of his material.

TURKEY SHOOT SUNDAY.

Interest is running high in the turkey shoot which will be held at the Los Angeles Gun Club all day Sunday. Fifteen choice birds have been put up and Manager Fred Teeple expects all of the Angel City's crack shots to come out and contest for a Thanksgiving bird.

NEW GUARD COMPANY.

Los Angeles is Asked to Recruit a Unit of Soldiers at Once by Adjutant-General.

Los Angeles is raising a new company of National Guards in less than a week. On Tuesday Adjt.-Gen. J. J. Borres requested Capt. James L. Irwin to organize a National Guard here, and last night he had already received sixty-one applications. Only forty-four more are needed, and he expects to have them by Saturday night.

The men who are joining the organization will be given their physical examinations at the armory in Exposition Park Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The first drill will be conducted at that time, and there will be drill three evenings a week thereafter.

This company will have a strength of 101 men. Almost immediately it will be mustered into the State service and it will be subject to call into the Federal service. Assurance has been given that these men will not be subject to strike duty.

Capt. Irwin says that he is receiving applications from a magnificent lot of men. Some of them are under the draft age; others have been exempted from the draft because of dependents, and still others are from 35 to 40 years of age.

Applications can be made to Capt. Irwin at room 424 Black Building.

SUNDAY WILL ATTEND SETTLEMENT MARKET.

Billy Sunday will be one of the patrons of the Belgian and French settlement market in Central Park Saturday. Late last night he telephoned this information to Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, who is chairman of the Foreign Market Committee.

The market is to be conducted to raise a fund for French and Belgian children. It will be patterned after the markets in Belgian places.

The evening performance will have Julian Eltinge for a gratifying attraction, also Henry Walthall.

Toto, the astonishing clown, will cut antics in both the afternoon and evening performances.

A notable feature of the afternoon programme will be the far eastern dancing of Verna Mesereau. Miss Mesereau has just finished her seventh tour of the United States in vaudeville.

RAILWAY SHARES FALL IN EXTENSIVE SELLING.

Another Day of Much Liquidation in the Investment Issues.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Investment stocks, principally rails, again were extensively liquidated in the early stages of today's trading, rallied moderately on sole motivated operations of speculators and fell away again at the active close.

Early declines carried St. Paul common and preferred and Baltimore and Ohio common and preferred to new low records at extreme recessions of 2 to 3¼ points. Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Missouri and Northwestern, Reading, Lackawanna and Western and New York Central followed the other rails that had yielded 1 to 2½ points to the lowest prices of the early stages of the year or for a much longer period. Weakness in this important group affected every other branch of the market. Only United Fruit rallied from 101⅝ to 101¾, but yielded 1-8. Other steels and specialties, motors, oils and specialties reversed their course, closing with declines or nominal changes showed underlying firmness in the motor issues. Sales amounted to 900,000 shares. Bonds were irregular on heavier sales par value, $6,135,000. United States 3s declined one-quarter and 4s one-half.

TWO SECURITIES DIVIDE ACTIVITY.

UNION OIL AND YELLOW PINE ATTRACT NOTICE.

Petroleum Leader Closes Firm. Goodsprings Stock Declines at Rapid Rate—Home Telephone Preferred Slightly Higher—No Session Today.

Union Oil and Yellow Pine divided practically three-fourths of the trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Union opened at 112.00, sold up to 112.50 and closed at 112.00. The stock in San Francisco sold below this minimum, and there appears to be very little support for the security at the moment, although present quotations appeal to most brokers as being the bottom for some time to come. Western Union Oil changed hands offboard at 50.00 and Traders brought 49.00. Home Telephone preferred was up a point a 94.00, when forty shares sold informally at that figure.

The slump in Yellow Pine Thursday was the main feature in an otherwise dull meeting. Initial transactions in this stock were registered at 1.32, the next sale was at 1.38, and from that point the quotation quickly dropped to a close of 1.19, with a low for the day of 1.16. No adequate reason was given for this sharp decline except the old one that there were no buyers for the stock, and sellers consequently forced down the market with every offer.

This condition appears to be the matter with all securities today. There are no buyers in the market at any price, and for that reason quotations will continue to steadily decline until stocks and bonds have reached a point where the banks will have to step in and protect their loans themselves.

There will be no session of the local board until next Monday, as today is a holiday and Saturday only has one call anyway.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

New crop walnuts are now coming into the market more freely. As a general rule the quality is uniformly good. This year the association has a new grading system on No. 2's. Heretofore No. 2 hardshells have been a mixture of small sizes and off grades. This year the No. 2 classification is guaranteed to be just as good in quality as the No. 1s, the only difference being that they are smaller in size. Both No. 1 and No. 2 are guaranteed to be not more than 10 per cent. off quality.

In an official statement, the California Walnut Growers' Association, which controls the crop in part, has the following to say: "The walnuts, which had almost completed their growth for size when the heat damage was encountered in June, seem to have made no further development in size since that time, and as a consequence the average run of California walnuts will not be as large as last season, and, owing to the fact that the association is using a grader for the softshells, with openings slightly over an inch, the percentage of No. 2s will be heavier this year than since 1912.

It is estimated that the crop will out-turn around 70 per cent. No. 2s, as against 4 per cent. last year. This will naturally reduce the tonnage of No. 1s to some extent. There are appearing in the first pickings a great many nuts with very thin shells, which will be removed from the first grades and used for cracking purposes. This condition is also a result of the June hot weather, and will also reduce the tonnage of first grades. Discounting the above and several other unusual conditions, it is our prediction that California will out-turn 37,000,000 pounds of first-class walnuts, about 8 per cent. less than last season's crop. These figures, however, are more subject to revision than they have been in previous years, when the estimates were more easily made."

Eggs shot up at yesterday morning's session of the Produce Exchange, extras going to 54 cents a dozen, case count to 53 cents, and pullets 43 cents a dozen. There seems to be no stopping the rise in egg prices, and a number of dealers are of the opinion that fresh extras will bring more than $1 a dozen to producers before the winter is over. The receipts consisted of 210 cases of eggs, 44,300 pounds of butter, 4300 pounds of cheese, 3996 sacks of potatoes, 300 sacks of onions, 1661 sacks of beans, 220 sacks of sweet potatoes and 4309 boxes of apples.

PORT ITEMS.

Italian sardine fishermen have gone on a strike and refuse to fish for sardines unless the canneries raise the price to $18 per ton. Most of the canners say they cannot pay more than the prevailing price of $12 per ton, which is $2 more than than is paid at Monterey. The fear that as soon as Luna leaves Monterey there will be plenty of boats willing to fish for sardines at the prevailing price. None of the boats under contract to fish for tuna are permitted to go out for sardines although most of them at this season would prefer to fish for sardines at $12 per ton than tuna at $20.

The steamer Yale, now in dry dock at San Francisco for repairs, will be back on the run between here and San Francisco October 15, according to an announcement made by the Pacific Steamship Company. The Yale will make three trips a week including one through trip to San Diego, while the Harvard is laid up. In the meantime there will be but two northbound sailings a week, the next steamer to be the Queen leaving here Sunday afternoon.

RETURNS FROM SCENE OF CONSPIRACY CASES.

Special Agent M. E. Blanford of the Department of Justice returned yesterday from San Diego, where he assisted in the arrest of Barney Manning, a well-known citizen of San Diego, who is charged with conspiracy in connection with the Annie Larson and Maverick neutrality case of 1915. It is alleged that the supplies on the Maverick were consigned to Juan Barnardo Bowen, who, it is claimed, was an alias for Manning, and to be landed at Topolobampo, Mex. Manning promptly gave bond in the sum of $20,000 for his appearance for trial in San Francisco October 30.

WINS DIVORCE FROM "LOVE POOL" ARTIST

HUSBAND'S ACTIONS SECURE DECREE FOR WOMAN.

Man Who was Convicted of a Serious Charge in Connection with "Farm" He Ran Some Time Ago Loses Spouse as Result of His Trouble.

An echo of the "Love Pool" of Joseph T. Valpey, whose arrest on a coptributing charge led to sensational testimony in the Juvenile Court, was heard in Judge Wood's court yesterday when Mrs. Minnie Valpey won a decree of divorce. Testimony in the case was partly taken last January, and was continued until yesterday for further evidence that Mrs. Rosalie Newton, one of the alleged models at the "art" farm, was a frequent week-end visitor at the farm. She was not present in court, but a neighbor testified that Mrs. Newton introduced herself to him as Mrs. Valpey.

Mr. Valpey, a photographer, is alleged to have taken pictures of girls in the nude. When arrested, his explanation was made that the studies were intended to be sold abroad as art. He was placed on probation, but it is said has not reported to the probation office for several months.

The divorce suit followed as a result of the contributing charge.

CAFE CONTRACT LET.

Third Effort to Settle Bids for High School Cafeteria Building Successful.

After having advertised for bids three times, the Board of Education yesterday afternoon let the contract for the cafeteria building in the new Los Angeles High School group. The successful bidder was the Willard-Brent Company, Inc.

The board twice rejected bids because they were too high, and finally let the job for $28,496, minus a few reductions which can be had by substituting certain brands of hardware.

The new structure will be erected alongside the engine-room. It will be made of brick, with plastered interior. The total cost, including extras, will probably be nearly $24,000, it is claimed. The cost will be defrayed by county funds, the County Supervisors having included about $40,000 in their recent budget for the completion of the new Los Angeles High School group.

EMPLOYEES' BONUSES.

A special bonus will be given Western Union employees who shall have served the company prior to January 2, 1918, and until July 1, 1918, on that date, according to word received by G. A. Lawrence, manager of the local branch from the general offices of the company in New York. A flat sum of $12.50 will be paid messenger boys, and a percentage, varying from 5 to 8 per cent. of their semi-annual wage will be paid other workers. The bonuses will have no effect on increasing of salaries, it is announced.

NOT A PROGRESSIVE.

A typographical error in a Times headline yesterday made it appear that former County Treasurer Mark Jones is a Progressive. The man mentioned as a possible successor to Richard H. Norton as Supervisor from the Second District is of course well known for his Republicanism.

TELLS HOW TO MAIL SOLDIERS' PRESENTS

POSTMASTER INSTRUCTED AS TO YULETIDE GIFTS.

Wrap All Parcels for Sammies Abroad in Strong Paper and Send Them Away Before November Fifteenth, Advises Postal Official Here.

Recognizing the unusual significance of the coming Christmas to our military, naval and civilian forces abroad, Postmaster Harrington Brown has received instructions in regard to the mailing of gifts to the men "somewhere in France."

It is absolutely necessary that all packages be covered with wrappers of sufficient strength not only to resist the pressure of other mail, but to withstand the weight of other sacks of mail which in the long journey may be piled together. They must also be scrutinized before leaving the United States to avoid troubles with the censor. Soldiers' Christmas boxes must be inclosed in substantial containers. Candies in thin pasteboard boxes should be inclosed in tin, wood or corrugated pasteboard boxes. Sealed packages of candy, cigars, tobacco and toilet articles may be inclosed within parcels without affecting the parcel-post classification. Cakes, plum puddings, etc., should be packed in substantial tin containers.

Parcels must be fully, correctly and legibly addressed and conspicuously marked "Christmas mail." The addressees' company, regiment or other organization followed by the words, "American Expeditionary Forces," should appear in the address. In the upper left corner should be written the name and address of the sender.

All parcels must be fully prepaid at the eighth zone rate of postage, or 12 cents for each pound or fraction. Patrons are cautioned against placing Red Cross stamps on the address side of mail matter. In the use of Christmas stickers care should be taken not to seal the packages therewith, as sealed packages are unmailable at the fourth-class rate of postage, which necessitates their being returned held for postage.

It is permissible to write or print on the cover of a package instructions such as "Merry Christmas," "Do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With best wishes" and the like if they are placed on the cover of the package so as not to interfere with the address. All Christmas or New Year mail should be mailed by November 15 and securely packed as indicated.

MATRIMONY OUTDOES WAR ADVENTURES.

VETERAN FINDS COURT HAS OUTPLANKED HIM.

Decree is Denied Old Warrior When Third Wife Alleges Intoxication and the Objectionable Conduct at Home—Letters Prove a Boomerang.

The matrimonial ventures of Frank L. Greenwood, a veteran of the Civil War, have numbered four. In Judge Wood's court, his third wife was the defendant in his suit for divorce, and although not present in court, she opposed the suit through an attorney. He testified that he married her seventeen years ago, and that they lived together three months and then separated. She told him, he alleged, that if he gave her $50 she could retain a lawyer and procure a divorce.

Mr. Greenwood compromised on half that sum, according to his testimony, and discovered that she never put up her half, "but gave his $25 to a drunken bum."

The third wife, it seems, did not know until seven years after she separated from Mr. Greenwood that she was entitled to a portion of his pension. She immediately went after it

WEST FIRST-STREET CONTRACT LIT

ELEVENTH-HOUR MOVE HALT IMPROVEMENT FAIL

Council Takes the Stand the Property Owners Could Not be Unanimous on the Question and Refused to Abandon Proceedings.

An eleventh-hour attempt to prevent the improvement of West First street was foiled by the Council when it refused to abandon the proceedings. Immediately after this action the Board of Public Works awarded the contract to George E. Oswald, his bid of $218,991.76 being the lowest.

Protests against the proposed improvement were made by a small coterie of property owners whose principal argument was that they do not favor bitulithic pavement and are opposed to some of the curb and other changes to be made in the street. The Council took the stand that it would be impossible to get all of the property owners to agree on any plan, and it would be poor policy to abandon proceedings which have cost so much already.

The contractor was given 600 days in which to complete the work, the date of starting is several months away owing to red tape connected with enforcement of the 1915 Improvement act. It is expected the work will not be finished in less than two years.

On the fourth floor are housed the drapery and art needlework sections. This floor is finished in quarter-sawed oak, a soft north light has been utilized for the "lesson room," where learners of art needlework may ply their industries without undue eye strain or fatigue. The drapery section is equipped with every modern device.

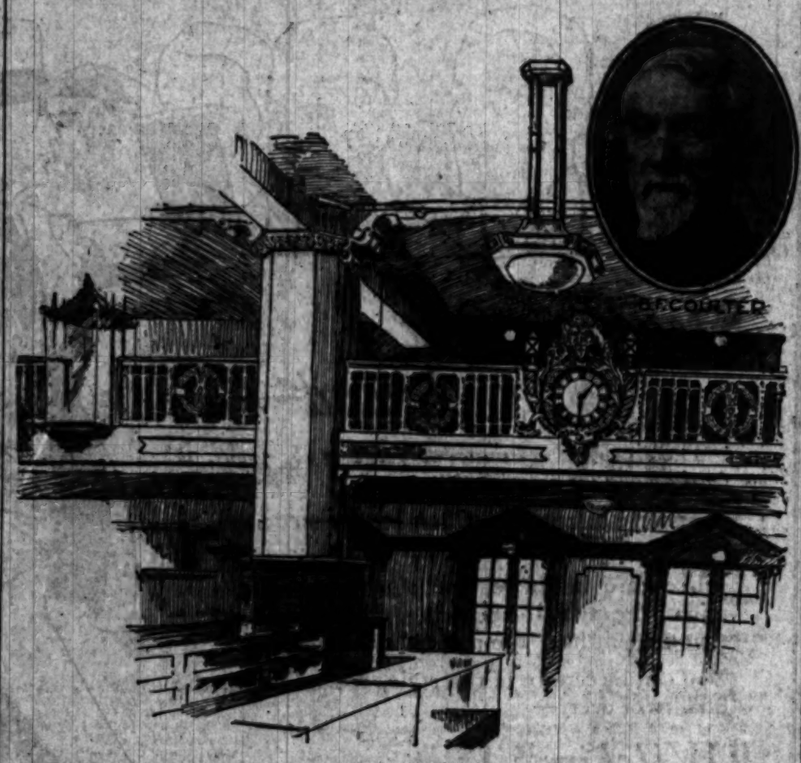
On the fifth floor are those offices not located on the mezzanine; the merchandise manager's office, with large, well-lighted sample-room adjoining; the mail order and advertising managers' offices, away from the noise and confusion of the store's activities.

Throughout the height of the building runs an immense shaft, in which runs by electricity a huge automobile elevator, the capacity of which is 5000 pounds, so that the heaviest loaded truck may be driven on it and raised to any desired floor, and making conveying of merchandise from receiving and marking rooms to the various sections an easy matter.

As heretofore, the Coulter Dry Goods Company will make no attempt at being a department store; only dry goods—and the best of dry goods—will be carried in stock. A greatly-increased corps of skilled buyers have been for months in eastern style centers assembling high-class merchandise for the fall and winter seasons; all of which is now on display and sale in the store's beautiful new home.

Many fine floral gifts sent from business houses throughout the city, and by personal friends everywhere, attest the high regard in which this house is held. Most conspicuous was a loving-cup, the tribute of employes. Formed from carnations and filled with a giant bouquet of chrysanthemums, this piece measured fully ten feet in height and bore upon one side the date of the foundation of Coulter's, upon the other that of the opening of the new store.

Achievement Epitomizes History of Los Angeles.



Main concourse of Coulter's new store and its founder.

The clock, which is in the center of the mezzanine railing, facing Seventh street, is bound to become a shopping figure in Los Angeles. The mezzanine balcony is handsomely decorated in bronze and old silver.

ARRAIGN WOMAN AS LYON'S ATTACKER.

WOMAN IS CALM AS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT IN COURT.

Marie Edwards is Brought Before Justice Palmer on Complaint Issued in District Attorney's Office. Her Hearing is Set and She is Placed in the County Jail.

Miss Marie Pinson, also known as Marie Edwards, was formally placed under arrest yesterday morning in her cell at Central Police Station on a warrant charging her with "assault with intent to commit murder," following the shooting and seriously wounding of State Senator Henry Lyon.

The complaint, upon which the warrant is predicated, was sworn to by Capt. W. H. Austin of the District Attorney's office. It was drawn by Deputy District Attorney Self.

Later Miss Pinson was arraigned before Justice Palmer. She told him her true name is Pinson. He fixed the young woman's bail at $1500, and set her examination for the 24th inst. In default of immediate bail Miss Pinson was remanded into the custody of Sheriff Cline and taken to the County Jail.

Attorneys Dominguez and Cohn, who have been retained by the woman, announce that they will be able to furnish bail for their client.

Miss Pinson was outwardly the least perturbed person in the courtroom when arraigned before Justice Palmer. In a clear voice, unshaken by emotion, she answered the few questions propounded to her. It was with a smile that she left the Courthouse for the short walk to the County Jail where a more commodious and better lighted cell than she had just left, awaited her.

THIS WOMAN TOLD TO CHOOSE

Between Operation and Death. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Des Moines, Iowa.—"My husband says I would have been in my grave today had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from a serious female trouble and the doctors said I could not live one year without an operation. My husband objected to the operation and got me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon commenced to get better and am now well and able to do my own housework. I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman as a wonderful health restorer."—MRS. BLANCHARD JEFFERSON, 701 Lyon St., Des Moines.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from highly prized roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MYSTERIOUS ATTACK.

Man Hits Woman on Head as She Nears Her Home and Flees. No Motive is Found.

A mysterious attack upon Mrs. W. R. McCann, wife of an employee of a local mining machinery house, as she was passing through an alley in rear of her home, the Bixel apartments, No. 616 South Bixel street, last night, was being investigated by Detectives Versand and Toomey.

According to the report made by Mrs. McCann, she was struck on the side of the head with some blunt instrument by a man who followed her as she approached the rear entrance to the apartment-house. The man, as his alleged victim described him to the police, was about six feet in height and dressed in dark clothes. As the woman fell to the ground, suffering from a deep cut on the head, the man fled, the police were told, without making any attempt to rob her. The detectives are puzzled by the lack of motive for the crime.

Lawyer Exonerated.

Walter Gould Lincoln, attorney for Fred P. Hewitt, was exonerated in Judge Wood's court of any intent to have Mr. Hewitt's daughter, Elmira, taken out of the jurisdiction of the court. The court accepted Mr. Lincoln's statement. Elmira is the prize for which the parents are battling. Mrs. Hewitt claims she was awarded to her, and this is disputed by Mr. Hewitt. The child expressed a preference for her father.

Defer Sending Men.

the fact that he had other appeals pending. This mistake will not occur again, as we have inaugurated a system that will make it impossible in the future."

A new phase of this problem came up today when George H. Jones of Local Board No. 6 was granted a thirty-day exemption in order to harvest his crops. He was certified back to No. 6 when his dependency claim was denied, but he later filed a claim on agricultural grounds. E. R. Leighton, chairman of Local Board No. 6 says that since Jones was certified back to him for service that he has no option but to send him to American Lake next Saturday unless he gets orders from the Adjutant-General's office to the contrary.

Secretary Brown says his board is through with the matter and Mr. Leighton says that he has no option but to send Jones to camp. In the meantime Mr. Jones is vainly trying to secure the advantage of his thirty-day temporary exemption.

From present indications, most of the local boards will be unable to send even the shortages on their previous contingents, though District No. 17 has sufficient men not only for their shortages, but also for the last 15 per cent. quota, and when the Federal board finally disposes of a number of claims now pending, Mr. Denis is confident that he will have sufficient to make up the shortage that will be caused by the rejections on physical grounds that have been made by the army surgeons at Camp Lewis.

SUNDAY CROWD GETS VARIETY.

Band Plays, People Yell and Billy Preaches.

Hundred and Fifty-eight are Trail-hitters.

Son of Evangelist to Leave for Atlanta.

Music by a street-railway band; yells by cracker-jack corps of merchandise salesmen; stirring solos by a sweet-voiced blind singer; duets by professional evangelist musicians; blood-stirring appeal for subscriptions to the Liberty Loan bonds, by a hustler of the local committee; resounding choruses by a mammoth male choir; speeches of praise and presentation of huge bouquets and baskets of flowers to members of the Sunday party, and then a forty-five-minute sermon by Billy himself, that kept 15,000 people keyed up to the closest attention—these were the features of last night's meeting at the great tabernacle, that preceded the "trail-hitting."

The trail was trod by 158 penitents. Twenty-eight hit the trail at the afternoon meeting. The day's result brought the total for the campaign up to 14,679.

Employees of the Hamburger store, employees of the Los Angeles Railway, and the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs vied with each other last night as to the size of their delegations. Four thousand tickets were given out for the street railway crowd. Almost as many were distributed among the Odd Fellows, and the Hamburger people took up the main central portion of the tabernacle. There were several out-of-town delegations.

Earl C. Houck sang a solo, the Los Angeles Railway Band played, and there was the usual fine music from the great male chorus and the mixed voices. Dale H. Park gave the plea for the Liberty Bonds, urging that when our men are ordered to go into the war, all must feel it their duty to help provide the money with which to equip and train these men so that they may aid in the struggle for world liberty.

NEARING CLOSE.

As a visible indication that the Sunday campaign is drawing on towards its close, the statement was made at the tabernacle last night that George Sunday, who has played a prominent part in the campaign here, will leave tomorrow for Atlanta, to take up the preliminary work for the campaign there. Billy Sunday has also referred to the near approach of the end several times in his talks of the past few days, and each time has expressed regret that he will not be able to stay longer in California.

BILLY SUNDAY WORK TODAY.

Will Give His Famous Sermon on "Amusements" this Evening.

Billy Sunday will preach in the big tabernacle at 2 o'clock this afternoon on "Compassion," Matthew 9:36-38. This evening he will give his famous sermon on "Amusements of Modern Society." This sermon will be repeated tomorrow night.

Noon meetings will be held today at the Wilson Packing Company's plant, Standard Felting Company, Pacific Sash and Door Company, McCroskey Packing Company, Griffin Wheel Company, Layne-Bowler Company, Southern California Hardwood Company, Los Angeles Railway car shops, Pacific Electric shops. A meeting will be held at police headquarters from 9 to 10 o'clock this forenoon, and there will be afternoon meetings at fire houses Nos. 26 and 34.

The women's corps of workers will conduct their usual series of daily meetings.

MINISTERS IGNORE CHURCH'S CHARGES.

SANTA ANA CONFERENCE TO TAKE NO ACTION.

Hollywood-Tripity Controversy Commented Upon, but no Official Cognizance is Taken of Circulars Requesting Change of Jurisdiction.

While the circulars that were handed out at Santa Ana by those who want to have the First Methodist Church, South, of Hollywood taken out of the jurisdiction and control of Trinity Church, Los Angeles, were among the chief topics of conversation yesterday at the South Methodist conference, now being held in Santa Ana, no reference to the controversy was made directly upon the floor of the conference, and some of the ministers in interviews declared that the Hollywood adherents would not be able to bring their grievance to a hearing before the conference.

M. L. Wicks and Nathan Newby, authors of the circulars distributed, take the ground that Hollywood's church ought to be put in charge of a minister and services conducted by him the coming year.

"The circulars do not deal at all fairly with Rev. C. C. Selecman," said Rev. A. T. O'Rear, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial Church, in which the conference is being held. "Dr. Selecman has merely been carrying out his instructions received from the board of church extension that met at Nashville, Tenn. That board decided to sell the Hollywood property. It was not a decision made by Dr. Selecman, as Nathan Newby intimates in his circular.

"It is generally conceded at the conference today that the Hollywood matter cannot come before the conference. If it is discussed at all it will be at the meetings of the cabinet, composed of the bishop and the two presiding elders, and any decision that may be reached will be announced Sunday night, when the appointments are announced."

At a meeting held last Monday night at Trinity Church the board of stewards of Trinity passed unanimously a resolution indorsing Dr. Selecman for his conduct of the church's affairs and asking his return. There were about twenty of the board present. The meeting was presided over by Dr. C. C. Stephenson, acting for R. C. Mitchell, the chairman of the board.

SCHOLASTIC HONORS FOR LOCAL STUDENT.

Word was received here yesterday that the high honor of appointment to the student fellowship in international law, which is awarded annually by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, has been awarded to John Eugene Harley of the University of Southern California.

Mr. Harley left immediately for Yale University, where he will pursue advanced work in international law as a result of his achievement. The coveted prize was awarded to him in competition with university students of the entire United States. The income from the fellowship amounts to $750 a year, and the prestige is great.

Mr. Harley graduated from U.S.C. last June, and has been serving as assistant to Dr. Roy Malcom, head of the department of political science.

PITEOUS TALE WINS PROBATION.

STOLE THAT HE MIGHT PROVIDE FOR SICK CHILDREN.

Judge Compliments Man on Efforts to Make Home for Offspring When Wife Deserts Him—Out of Work, Offender Says, He was Driven to Extremities.

After having been sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for stealing three horses, Frank Collie was granted probation yesterday by Superior Judge McCormick.

Collie confessed to stealing the animals, on which he failed to realize anything, in the hope that he might be able to sell them and provide for his two sick children. It was shown that Collie was deserted by his wife several years ago.

Since that time the father has cared for his children. Several months ago, it appears, a promised position failed to materialize, and, being out of money, with two sick children upon his hands, Collie stole three horses from the Laguna ranch. He took them to a sales stables and offered them for sale, but the management became suspicious and notified the police. The man's arrest followed.

In granting Collie probation Judge McCormick took occasion to compliment him most highly in his efforts to provide for his two children, but expressed regret that he had found it necessary to resort to crime to secure money for medicine and clothing. He stated that he hoped that in the future he would always be as successful in life that he and his little ones would never want for anything within reason.

MAN ASKS DAMAGES.

Judge Oscar A. Trippet and a jury are hearing the evidence in the action brought by John E. Hafer, a street car conductor of this city, against H. K. Clover and Mrs. H. K. Clover, to recover damages of $17,228.85, alleged to be due on account of an accident occurring at the corner of Main and Twelfth streets, February 7, last, by which it is alleged the complainant suffered concussion of the brain. It is charged that the defendants, driving an automobile, recklessly struck Hafer while he was crossing the intersection of the streets.

At the City Hall.

WASHINGTON-STREET PAVING FAVORED.

MAJORITY OF COUNCIL WOULD HAVE IT DONE AT ONCE.

Only Important Boulevard in the City not Improved, Says Councilman Mallard, Who Urges Quick Action—Ordinance of Intention is Deferred One Week.

While a majority of the members of the Council yesterday indicated that they are in favor of the improvement of Washington street from Arlington avenue to the west city boundary, it was unanimously agreed to defer action upon the proposed ordinance of intention for one week.

It developed that no petition has been presented to the Council asking that the improvement be made and Councilman Criswell said he would not vote for it under the circumstances. "It is one of the most extensively used thoroughfares in the city," said Councilman Mallard, "and I think it is the duty of the Council to take the necessary steps to have the work started."

The distance to be paved is estimated to be nearly one and a half miles.

Still After Annexation.

A committee representing the electors who voted in favor of the annexation of the West Adams district yesterday appeared before the Council and requested that former action be rescinded and the territory annexed at once. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole, and the clerk was instructed to have both sides present. Action on the annexation was postponed a few weeks ago until November 28.

City Holds up Check.

After Councilman Mallard told the Council yesterday that it had better go slow in closing the deal for a lot near the city's asphalt plant, the City Auditor was instructed to hold up the check for the property until an investigation can be made. Mr. Mallard said the city has agreed to pay $1800 for the lot, and he has been informed that it will cost $1500 to make the lot worth a nickel.

City Hall Briefs.

A further hearing on the question of constructing a foot bridge through Arcade station from Central avenue to Alameda street was continued until January 16.

Despite the disapproval of the City Auditor, the Council yesterday ordered him to make out a warrant for $132.73 in favor of the Royal Securities Company.

The Council yesterday accepted ten Ford automobiles recently purchased for the police department.

A deed from the Southern Pacific company conveying land for the opening of Reseda avenue at Zelzah, in the San Fernando Valley, was accepted yesterday by the Council.

MARRIAGE MISTAKE, HE WRITES BRIDE.

The story of an alleged deserted bride was told in Judge Wood's court yesterday. Mrs. May Chambers, who brought suit against Stephen H. Chambers, testified that six weeks after their marriage Mr. Chambers left on a business trip, sending her to the mountains. Subsequently she received a letter from him stating that the marriage was a mistake and that they had better separate for all time. The case was continued until January 17 for further evidence of the desertion.
